CRAZED WOMAN KILLS BABY AND THEN HERSELF

While Despondent Mrs. Lysick Is Responsible for Horrible Crime.

TAKES HER CHILD TO ROOM FOR DEED

SLASHES HER OWN THROAT

Murderess Had Brooded Over Hundred's Intention to Send Her and Children Back to the Old Country—Body Is Found by Sister-in-Law.

Catholene Leysick, aged 27, of 104 Ivandale street, killed her six-months' old daughter, Annie, by cutting her throat with a razor, and then committed suicide by slashing her throat at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The woman almost severed the child's head, and cut her own throat to the vertebra. She was crazed from despondency. Her husband, Michael Leysick, intended sending her and the two children to their native country, and the woman, it is said, did not want to return.

The family boarded with John Leysick, a brother. They occupied a room on the second floor of the house. The husband was at work at the time of the tragedy. About 4:45 Mrs. Leysick took her children to her room. There were three persons in the house at the time, Vassel Ferszkyle and his brother, Nicholas, boarders, and Mrs. John Leysick. The latter was preparing supper for the two boarders.

Finds the Woman's Body.

Nicholas Ferzkyle wanted a drink of whisky and asked Mrs. John Leysick to go to the second floor and get it. The woman had to pass through Catholene Leysick's room to get the liquor, and as she entered, she found Catholene lying on the floor in a pool of blood. She called the two boarders who summoned neighbors.

When the neighbors gathered in the house there was a great deal of confusion. Policemen Milhern and McHenry notified the coroner. Policeman John McGinnity of the Second avenue station house, was on his way to report when he saw the crowd and went to the house.

Although a number of persons had gone to the room where the dead woman was lying they had failed to notice the infant who was lying among some pillows with its throat cut.

Baby's Body on the Bed.

McGinnity entered the room and started to search about the place when he found the body of the baby in a pool of blood on the bed. He raised the child's body and its head almost fell off. Only a few tendons held the head to the body. When Deputy Coroners Schad and Hazlett arrived they found a piece of heavy twine under her, with a loop in one end.

Mary, aged 3, another daughter, had gone to the room with her mother and little sister. It is supposed the woman first intended hanging herself, but that the presence of the older child prevented her and she ordered her out of the room. While the woman killed her child and herself her other child sat on the stairway just outside of the room.

There were five razors which belonged to the different boarders lying on a shelf in the room, and the woman used two of these to complete the tragedy. After killing her child with one blade she took another razor to destroy herself with. Both blades were found by her side.

Husband Hears of Tragedy.

The floor of the room was covered with blood. When the dead woman's sister-in-law found her she was still alive. By the time the two boarders reached the room she was dead. The two boarders and Mrs. John Leysick were committed to jail until after the inquest. In the meantime the deputy coroners will make further investigation of the case. While they are convinced the woman killed her child and took her life they deemed it advisable to hold the other persons who were in the house at the time, pending further investigation.

The dead woman's husband is employed at Jones & Laughlin's mills, and was on his way home when he met John Scharivan, who told him "to hurry home, as there was great trouble there." The husband arrived at the home and was informed by his countrymen of the tragedy.

The woman had been despondent for some time. About six months ago the family broke up housekeeping and went to their brother's to live.

Makes Good Her Threat.

When Mrs. Leysick first learned of her husband's intention of sending her to the old country she tried to end her life by jumping into the Monongahela river, but was rescued. Since that time she has been brooding over the probability of returning to her native land. Recently she told Vassell Ferzkyle that she would kill herself, but her relatives did not consider her threat seriously.

The family have been in this country for some years. The police and deputy coroners were unable to obtain any information from the eldest child, Mary, who went to the room with her mother and little sister. She could only inform them her mother took a piece of twine and tied a loop in it. When that was done her mother pushed her out of the room. The bodies of the victims were turned over to an undertaker.

Miss Lawson is the eldest of the four daughters and the only one whose marriage has thus far been discussed.

TOUCHES FATAL NERVE IN REMOVING THE LAD'S EYE

Rochester Boy Dies Under an Apparently Simple Operation Performed by a Beaver Surgeon.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ROCHESTER, PA., Oct. 6.—William Caley Masten, aged 17 years, son of William G. Masten of Rochester, died last night during an operation for the removal of his right eye. Dr. W. C. Maoner of Beaver, who performed the operation, attributes the death of the young man to the cutting of one of the nerves of the eye, which, he thinks, caused paralysis of the heart, resulting in the boy's death.

Masten had been troubled with his eye for the past six years, and about a month ago Dr. Maoner performed an operation on the eye while the young man was at the Eye and Ear hospital, Pittsburgh. As he still suffered from the eye, he again consulted Dr. Maoner, who determined to remove the eye.

Masten seemed to be in the best of health immediately before the operation. His death was not immediately detected, as he was under the influence of an anesthetic. He was employed as a clerk in the Phoenix Glass works of Monaca. His parents and four brothers survive.

RUN COLE TO EARTH.

Man Accused of Making Counterfeit Money Is Found Hiding in Lumber Camp.

Henry Cole, an alleged counterfeiter for whom the secret service agents have been searching five months, was found yesterday by Operator John E. Washer at Wildell, W. Va. He was hiding in a lumber camp. With Martin Cox he is charged with making counterfeit dollars, 50 and 25 cent pieces. The spurious coin is said to have been made at their home at Garrett, and passed in Canonsburg, Washington county.

Cox was arested but Cole escaped. His arrest was considered so important that orders were issued not to cease work until he was captured. After much effort he was located in the lumber camp. Cole will have a hearing before United States Commissioner William T. Lindsey today. He is 22 years old.

MUTUAL SEEMS TO BE MUCH OF FAMILY AFFAIR

PRESIDENT M'CURDY RECEIVES $150,000

His Son Believes There Should Be No Limit to Matter of Compensation.

NEVER KNEW FATHER'S BEFORE

Two Vice Presidents and the Treasurer of the Company Each Receive Annually as Much Money as the President of the United States.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Closing a week, every day of which has produced a sensation that has stirred the country, the special legislative committee investigating the methods of insurance companies adjourned today until Tuesday of next week. In today's testimony the sensational development was when Mr. Hughes demanded the payroll of the executive officers of the Mutual Life Insurance Company. This was produced and showed the salaries of these officers since 1877.

For the year 1904 President McCurdy received $150,000; two vice presidents were paid $50,000 each; a second vice president $17,500; the third vice president, $10,000, and the general manager $25,000, who this year will receive $20,000; and the treasurer $50,000.

Robert McCurdy said he never knew the salary of his father until today when he heard it read in the committee room. He thought, however, there should be no limit to the salary of such positions, because they should be in accordance with the accumulations of the company.

When asked if it was any benefit to the policyholder to increase the president's salary, Mr. McCurdy said he thought the trustees had considered that when they increased the president's salary. No increase, however, had ever been considered when he was present at the trustees' meetings.

Believes in Big Salaries.

Earlier, when Mr. McCurdy was on the stand, Mr. Hughes tried to bring out why C. H. Raymond & Co. and the partners in that firm received larger emoluments from the business than any other agency. Mr. McCurdy said he did not know what Mr. Thebaud received from the business and had never talked with him about his personal affairs. He said it was a "large reward for large achievements," and that all businesses of large magnitude were built up on that principle.

During Mr. McCurdy's testimony it was brought out that George Raymond, a brother of Charles H. Raymond, was the general agent for New Jersey; that Howard Lewis, the general agent for Northern New York, with an office in Albany, was a cousin of either the vice president, Mr. Granniss, or Mrs. Granniss; that Dr. E. J. Moss, the medical director of the Mutual Life, married a sister of the president of the company; and that D. Stuyvesant Pillot, an inspector of risks, is a cousin of Louis Thebaud, son-in-law of President McCurdy and partner of the Raymond firm.

G. W. White, a secretary of the company, whom Mr. McCurdy was asked about, said he was no relative of any officer of the company, but "that Mrs. White was a niece of Mrs. Granniss, wife of Vice President Granniss." He knew none of the salaries of these officers.

Will Call the President.

It had been expected by the committee that President McCurdy would appear on the stand today, but he had left his office before the committee had notified him. Probably he will be one of the witnesses Tuesday, when the sessions are resumed.

At one point in the day's testimony much interest was manifested when the expenditures of the company were taken up. An auditor of the Mutual Life, C. A. Preller, was on the stand and was asked as to the method of recording the expenditures. It was gathered these were

MR. TAFT WILL CONTROL THE BUILDING OF PANAMA CANAL

The Secretary of War Will Go to the Isthmus in November and Look After the Work on the Great Waterway.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The management of the isthmian canal affairs will remain under Secretary Taft who will go to Panama in November to investigate the situation there and thoroughly inform himself of the conditions in the canal zone. The decision to keep the control of the canal in the war department instead of transferring it to the state department was definitely reached today in a discussion that followed the cabinet meeting.

Now that the work is to proceed under his direction, Secretary Taft will proceed to Panama, go over the situation in detail and return to Washington about the time congress convenes. The secretary has had conflicting reports regarding the progress of the work, the sanitation, the facilities for the officials and laborers, and he desires to have personal knowledge which will enable him to decide what should be done and what recommendations shall be made to congress.

Early next week, the secretary will take up the subject of finances and decide as to what recommendations should be made to congress respecting the issue of bonds, which have been provided for by congress. Secretary Taft will give every feature of the canal administration his careful personal attention.

SNAPSHOTS OF THE BOYS' BRIGADE FIELD DAY

No. 1—Wigwag drill of the signal service corps.

No. 2—Capts. Muir and Wright of the regulars compare notes.

No. 3—Khaki tailor-made suits and campaign hats went well with the blue eyes and dimples of some of the feminine spectators.

No. 4—Col. Homer T. Lindsay and Capt. H. B. Carrier indulge in some military shop talk.

GIRLS IN KHAKI AID SOLDIERS AT THE DRILL

TO MAKE AWARDS TONIGHT

The call of bugles, the clank of arms and the glitter of military trappings made a warlike medley of noise and color in Friendship park yesterday afternoon when the crack companies of the United Boys' Brigade of America lined up to show excellence in competitive drills. It certainly didn't look like a peace conference. The young soldiers seemed to be thoroughly in earnest and their officers were in their most immaculate uniforms.

Sweethearts turned out in khaki and brass buttons. Who wouldn't walk smart under such circumstances? When somebody with tresses of gold, blue eyes and a face full of blushes and dimples turns out with a tailor-made costume of khaki and a campaign hat that also pervades in the Philippines, it's really an ungallant cadet who would not do his best to create a favorable impression.

"Right—dress!"

Every young soldier who heard the command glanced over his right shoulder, and the way the line straightened out was marvelous.

"Great!" exclaimed Col. H. P. Pope, commander-in-chief of the United Boys' Brigade of America.

"Great!" simultaneously exclaimed Capts. Charles H. Muir and W. M. Wright, who were detailed from the general staff of the United States war department to make observations and be adjudicate in the drills.

"Great!" exclaimed 1,500 people in the grandstand.

And of course the credit went to the discipline of the young soldiers and to the ability of their officers, but it didn't belong there. Nobody had ever seen them drill that way before. The applause died away and the boys in the ranks blushed and looked decidedly embarrassed. Their officers expressed surprise. Col. Homer T. Lindsay, who is one of the aids on the staff of Gov. Samuel W. Pennypacker, but who is also one of the high officers in the Boys' Brigade, confided to Capt. Howard B. Carrier of the Fourteenth that even the governor himself would not expect to see drilling like that.

"Fine!" shouted Lieut. H. B. Burns of Battery B.

A whole lot more could be written of yesterday's field day of the Boys' Brigade convention, but nobody will know until tonight at the big reception at the Eighteenth regiment armory, at the winners in the competition and until that time there will be no particular interest manifested in those who took part. There were company drills of the infantry, a signal service wigwag and a two-section artillery drill. All were very good.

There are nearly 1,500 members of the Boys' Brigade in the city and the youngsters are rolling up against open-handed hospitality of the sort that makes them feel like throwing both their shoulders and striking out their chests. Maj. Gen. Henry P. Belger of Altoona, who has served long as state commander says that he will refuse resignation. Just how there is no available opponent in sight and the question is anything else the size has been decided. There is a probability that he will be called upon to serve at least another term.

Honors Reception to Chief.

HELENA, MONT., Oct. 6.—Gov. Toole today tendered the resolutions of Gov. Mickey of Nebraska for Pat Crowe. The specific charge is robbery.

CHICAGO PACKERS DEMUR AGAINST INDICTMENTS

Five Meat Companies and Seventeen Employes File Protests in Court.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Formal demurrers to nine of the counts in the indictments returned by the federal grand jury against five of the meat packing companies and 17 of their employes were filed in the United States district court today, and pleas of not guilty on the first count are to be entered next Monday, when the entire matter will be taken up before Judge Humphrey.

After the filing of the demurrers, Attorney John S. Miller, the representative of the defendants, had a conference with United States District Attorney Morrison and Assistant Attorney General Oliver E. Pagin. The meeting lasted for more than an hour, but all those interested in it refused to state the nature of the discussion.

NOMINATE HUGHES UNANIMOUSLY FOR MAYOR

Gotham Republicans Select Insurance Inquisitor as Standard Bearer.

For mayor—Charles E. Hughes.
For comptroller—Richard Young.
For president of board of aldermen—James L. Wells.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Charles E. Hughes, principal counsel for the committee of the legislature to investigate insurance affairs, was tonight unanimously nominated as the candidate for mayor of New York by the Republican city convention in Carnegie hall. The other nominations were: Richard Young, Brooklyn, for comptroller, and James L. Wells of the Bronx for president of the board of aldermen.

The platform endorsed a denunciation of the Democratic municipal administration, an affirmation of the principle of non-partisanship in municipal affairs, a demand for the passage by the next legislature of laws for the protection of life insurance policyholders and a more rigid official scrutinizing of life insurance companies, the control of future subways by the municipality and the establishment of a municipal lighting plant.

Senator Elihu Root in placing Mr. Hughes' name in nomination, said:

"I say that in proceeding to this convention the suggestion I am about to make, we have no thought that the man whom I shall name will give time to the work of the campaign. We shall ask no time from him. We believe that the most eloquent campaign addresses that he can make are the questions he is daily putting to the witnesses before him. We insist that whatever the action we may take tonight it shall not deter him from relentlessly pursuing every evildoer, high or low, Republican or Democratic.

"It's Hughes, its Hughes," the delegates shouted and then the convention became wildly enthusiastic, while the band played "Hail to the Chief," and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Richard Young of Brooklyn, who was nominated for comptroller, said today at his home that he would not be a candidate.

SLIM AUDIENCE GREETS BERRY

Reynoldsville Voters Don't Turn Out Very Strongly to Hear the Barnstormers.

SENATOR DEWALT DISGUSTED

Special Telegram From
WALTER J. CHRISTY, Staff Correspondent.

REYNOLDSVILLE, PA., Oct. 6.—The Berry campaign is daily becoming more of a joke. The candidate for state treasurer is disheartened over his reception in Western Pennsylvania, and Senator Arthur G. Dewalt of Lehigh is disgusted. Tonight the barnstormers appeared in a little dance hall in a back street of this town. There were about 25 persons at the opening, and it was doubtful for a time whether the show would be given.

Berry was up against it tonight, according to one of his Democratic supporters, who was asked why the attendance was so small, and this is the way he explained it:

"There is an opery, a dance, a singin', and a festival in the town tonight, and anyway Jefferson county is d——n Republican."

The Punxsutawney drum corps contributed much to the success of the meeting. This band of musicians gathered in front of the hotel, where Berry was stopping, which, by the way, is a Republican house. They played for half an hour to attract a crowd, but the crowd did not appear. Then the march to the dance hall was made. The drum corps led the way. The drum major used an old broom for a baton. At the hall the drums were given an awful beating in the hope of taking trade from the opera, dance, singing and festival. The music had no charms. When the meeting finally was called to order, the drum major came out of the dance hall, and without solicitation volunteered this information:

Chilly Time for Berry.

"I am the drum major of the 'Punxsy' drum corps. We've been beating h—l out of the drums to get a crowd. I'm going around to the bar now to get a fresh one, so I can keep the boys going." The drum major disappeared to secure some liquid encouragement, and Philip Taylor of Falls Creek, chairman of the meeting, introduced the Prohibition-Democratic candidate for state treasurer.

The surroundings were so frosty that Berry did not remove his overcoat. He asked the men and boys to gather around him as he did not care to waste his wind. "Where two or three people are gathered together," said Berry, "some good may come of it. One of the most remarkable and widely-quoted sermons was delivered to an audience of one woman. We should never despise small things."

Berry told his audience again that his selection by the Democrats is providential. He has a wonderful opinion of himself and never tires telling of his election as mayor of Chester on a fusion ticket. Tonight he told his audience he was called to the telephone while the Democratic state convention was in session and asked to take the nomination for treasurer. "Something had happened in Chester," said he, "in February, which has made my name known to the people all over Pennsylvania. I decided it was my duty to accept the nomination."

The writer happened to be present when Berry's name was presented to the man who has to place the final O. K. on all Democratic state slates. This was on Tuesday, the day before the convention that nominated Berry and about three months after Chester had elected its mayor. The slate maker said:

"Berry? Berry? Who the h—l is Berry. I never heard of him? Well, get some of the boys together tonight and pick a man for the place."

A Brief Political History.

Berry told his audience this much of his political history: "I was born a Democrat; for a time I was on the water wagon and now I have gone back to the Democrats."

The Philadelphia Record came in for another side swipe tonight. Berry was telling of the Philadelphia papers that are supporting him. Of the Record he said: "Some of us Democrats have not been satisfied with it."

Berry has been on the stump for two weeks. He has nightly been charging all sorts of crimes to the Republican party, without giving evidence to support his allegations. This evening he had to admit he is out of material. He told his audience: "These newspaper reporters expect something new every night and I cannot give it to them." This evening almost his whole speech was devoted to matters pertaining entirely to the politics of Chester county. When he did try to break into some other field, he made misstatements. He said the last legislature had cut down all the appropriations to insane asylums and hospitals and many institutions were refused altogether. This was done, said he, by Lee Plummer, so the money could be kept in "favored" banks. This is far from the truth, as the records of the legislature will show. In many cases the appropriations were greatly increased. He also made the positive statement the money for schools is always held back for nine months.

Senator Dewalt spent but little energy on the audience. Tomorrow night he and Berry will speak in Williamsport.

LARKIN'S EFFORTS ARE VAIN

The Orphans last night indorsed the entire Republican county ticket, no exception was made, every candidate being given the approval of the Orphans. The Orphans are not in state politics, their organization being intended only for action in municipal and county affairs, therefore they indorsed neither J. Lee Plummer, the Republican nominee for state treasurer, nor William H. Berry, the Democratic candidate.

The vote by which the action was taken was 7 to 4. Of course, Controller Larkin and W. S. Haynes were in favor of indorsing the Democratic-Citizens, but it was pointed out to Mr. Larkin that he had already announced that he was for the fusion ticket and therefore he had no complaint to make if the majority of the Orphans preferred the Republican ticket, and as Mr. Haynes is the chairman of the Citizens ward committee of the Twenty-third ward, his opposition to the action taken was considered but natural.

Was a Pretty Warm Meeting.

It was a pretty warm meeting. It was held in room No. 11 at the Monongahela house and now and then loud voices could be heard floating out into the lobby. Larkin and Haynes fought hard for the Bigelow candidates, but the latter were handicapped too badly. The majority of the Orphans admitted that individually the fusion nominees were respectable men, but pointed out that in allying themselves with a set of politicians who violated every pledge they ever made to the public, they forfeited every expectation of vots from men devoted to true political reform.

The following resolutions were adopted:

The Orphans party deems it expedient to issue, at this time, a statement to the voters of Allegheny county. The Republican candidates for offices at the November election are men of unquestioned integrity and ability. The Citizens party candidates are chosen from the best men of the party, and against whom, individually, not a word of censure can be said, except that they have allied themselves with a set of politicians whose public record for the past three years is in utter violation of their pledges, made to the people who put them in office.

The people of Pittsburgh are astounded at the audacity of the city administration in throwing to the winds campaign pledges and promises. This administration has broken every promise it made in regard to exacting from public service corporations a fair compensation for franchises granted.

Danger of Serious Revolt.

We are convinced that if the affairs of the county were conducted on the same lines as the affairs of the city are conducted a serious revolt would result. It is common knowledge that through the energetic efforts of the leaders of the Citizens party valuable franchises over costly public thoroughfares have been given by the city, free of charge, to a syndicate, whose main object appears to have been not to use the franchises for the accommodation of the public, but to secure such franchises for barter and sale. What can the county expect of its lately improved roads if this system should gain as full control over county affairs as is apparent over city affairs?

Taking into consideration that the Citizens party has so grossly deceived the people in the management of city affairs, we believe that the same deception and the same results will follow if the leaders of the Citizens party gain full control over the county. There is no doubt that both tickets are made up of excellent men; but we are convinced that it is not safe to have the affairs of the county conducted by the leaders of the Citizens party.

The Orphans' organization still maintains as its primary object the promotion of good local government, and firmly believes that with the proper effort and the co-operation of those favoring an honest administration of city affairs the prospects of electing a strong, independent and capable mayor, as well as electing to councils next February a majority composed of men who will legislate in the interest of the people, are excellent.

Hays' Administration Roasted.

It is apparent that a victory for the Citizens party at this time would so intrench and fortify that organization that the people of Pittsburgh will be menaced with a continuation of an incompetent, obnoxious municipal administration. Such a victory would make it harder to elect an independent ticket at the next city election in February.

We therefore heartily indorse the county Republican ticket, and call upon all good citizens to vote the ticket in its entirety at the November election.

It was a fairly conducted meeting. W. H. Stevenson, the chairman of the Orphans central committee, presided, and he allowed every man present to make as many speeches as he wanted. Mr. Haynes made more speeches than any one else, although it was not certain that he is a member of the central committee, and Mr. Stevenson just took his word for the statement that he does belong to it.

It was rather sad, too, this parting of the ways between the Orphans and Mr. Larkin. Mr. Stevenson, Charles S. Crawford and other members of the committee are great friends of Mr. Larkin, but their affection for him personally could not blind them to the fact that in indorsing the Bigelow candidates for county offices he was untrue to Orphan principles and traditions.

Sorrow for Larkin's Waywardness.

"I still hold that Mr. Larkin is the best city controller we have ever had," said Mr. Stevenson, "but—" and there was a world of meaning in the last word.

"The resolutions give reasons enough," said Mr. Stevenson afterward, "but in addition to those reasons, would not the Orphans have stultified themselves if they had indorsed county officers who did all in their power to defeat the re-election to councils Orphan councilmen who kept the pledges on which they were elected?"

Mr. Stevenson would not furnish a bill of particulars, but he doubtless referred to the action of the county delinquent tax collector, Robert G. Mattern, in causing the defeat of W. B. Wolfe, who was up for re-election, and of the county recorder, J. D. O'Neil, in using his personal and officials influence and the patronage of his office to defeat Jacob Soffel, Jr., in the Thirty-second ward, and Mr. Stevenson himself in the Fourteenth ward.

Mr. Stevenson was told that there had been some talk that the Orphans intended to indorse one candidate on the fusion ticket, Robert J. Cunningham, the county controller. "How could we indorse Mr. Cunningham with any consistency?" queried Mr. Stevenson. "We must defeat the entire fusion ticket, because they are allied with malign influences and because by beating those influences we make it more possible to elect a good mayor at the next election."

Larkin and His Funny Proxy.

Controller Larkin had fortified himself with a proxy, in order to have as many votes as possible. A man named Irwin, living in the Twenty-second ward, had been invited several times to confer with the Orphans' central committee, not as a member but as an adviser, during the last campaign. Mr. Larkin presented a proxy authorizing him to act in Irwin's place, but Chairman Stevenson decided that Irwin was not a member of the central committee, therefore could not vote, hence a proxy from him was invalid.

The vote on the resolutions indorsing the Republican nominees and giving the reasons therefor was as follows: Ayes, W. H. Stevenson, W. C. Beltz, Charles S. Crawford, Jacob Soffel, Jr., Dr. George W. McNeil, William B. Wolfe and Frederick Bebber; noes, John B. Larkin, Thomas O'Brien, J. K. Baldauf and W. S. Haynes. James K. Wymard refused to vote. The only members of the central committee not present were Dr. J. P. Shaw and Gebhart Sahner. Dr. Shaw is in the west and Mr. Sahner was working at his employment as a glassblower last night, but Mr. Stevenson said they had written or said that they would be in perfect accord with whatever policy the majority of the Orphans might adopt.

WHY NOT TO BERRY?

ARE A UNIT FOR TARIFF REVISION

Republicans of the Old Bay State Hold a Convention Entirely Harmonious.

GUILD NAMED FOR GOVERNOR

The Massachusetts Republican State Ticket

For governor—Curtis Guild, Jr., Boston.

Lieutenant governor—Eben S. Draper, Hopedale.

Secretary of State—William M. Olin, Boston.

Treasurer and receiver general—Arthur B. Chapin, Holyoke.

Auditor—Henry E. Turner, Maldan.

Attorney general—Dana Malone, Greenfield.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—With only one voice raised in opposition, the Republicans of Massachusetts in state convention today declared for a revision of the tariff. Contrary to expectations, the radical wing of the party, under the leadership of Eugene N. Foss of Boston, did not offer a substitute for the plank in the platform, relating to the tariff, although in a speech to the delegates Mr. Foss declared the revision of the tariff favored in the state platform was not sufficiently wide in its scope. Mr. Foss said, however, he and his followers were encouraged at the concessions made to them, and next year would expect to have the convention accept their proposition in its entirety.

Draper Springs a Surprise.

One of the surprises came when Gen. William F. Draper, former ambassador to Italy, and a leading member of the Home Market club, opposed in a vigorous speech the adoption of the tariff revision plank of the platform. Gen. Draper said he would not offer any substitute plank for the reason he knew there was no chance of his or any other substitute being accepted. Gen. Draper contended tariff revision would be followed by financial and commercial depression, and, speaking as a manufacturer, he could see no reason why there should be a revision.

The platform presented by the committee on resolutions was adopted without amendment and contained, in brief, an indorsement of the administration of President Roosevelt, especial mention being made of his part in bringing about peace between Russia and Japan, and of his enforcement of the laws preventing corporations from oppressing the people; a recommendation for the enactment by congress of a tariff provision, which shall protect American markets against discrimination and secure to the United States the treatment accorded to the most favored nation in all foreign markets; a resolution for the increase of the navy and the upbuilding of the American merchant marine and an indorsement of the administration of former Governor John L. Bates.

Contest for Attorney General.

Aside from the adoption of a platform containing a tariff revision plank, the feature of the convention was the contest for the nomination for attorney general. Three ballots were necessary for a choice, Dana Malone winning on the final vote, polling 772 votes. His nearest competitor, Gen. Edgar R. Champlin, received 366 votes. The only other contest for a nomination, that for lieutenant governor, was decided on the first ballot, Eben S. Draper defeating Col. August H. Goetting and Frederick S. Hall by a substantial plurality.

Lieut.-Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., was nominated for governor by acclamation. For secretary of state, state treasurer and auditor, William M. Olin, Arthur B. Chapin and Henry E. Turner, the respective incumbents, were also renominated by acclamation.

One of the surprises of the convention was the action of the delegates representing the committee of 100 on reciprocal trade. This committee represented the radical wing of the party, and it was expected its representatives at the convention would wage a vigorous contest over the plank, relating to the tariff. All prospects of a contest were dispelled, however, when Henry B. Blackwell, of Boston, speaker in behalf of the committee of one hundred, announced that the committee was perfectly satisfied with the tariff plank.

Lodge Scores Foss.

A feature of the day's proceedings was the address of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. Senator Lodge took the platform to reply to Eugene N. Foss, who had advocated the free admission of coal, hides and raw materials.

Mr. Foss severely scored the Massachusetts senators and representatives in congress, charging that they were not loyal to the interests of Massachusetts. Senator Lodge made a forceful and eloquent address, and in a parliamentary manner censured Mr. Foss for his strictures on the Massachusetts representation at the capitol. Mr. Lodge also said the time for tariff revision was the time when the Republican party was in power. He argued that "free raw materials" was but another term for "free trade," and that the admission of free raw materials would sound the death knell of reciprocity as well as of protection.

SEEMS FAMILY AFFAIR

passed upon by an expenditure committee of which Robert Olyphant was chairman. Three entries on the books of payments to Mr. Olyphant of $25,000 each were looked into, but no information could be gleaned. Mr. Preller was asked about the campaign contribution to the Republican congressional committee, disclosed yesterday, but he said none had come under his observation.

The $2,500 to the congressional committee was looked for when the ledgers were produced, but up to adjournment this afternoon this had not been found.

During the course of General Manager Robert H. McCurdy's examination, Mr. Hughes said:

"Don't you think you could get Mr. Thebaud's services for $100,000?"

"I suppose so, if he didn't have a contract."

"Don't you think you could get him for $50,000 instead of the $147,000 he received from Raymond & Co. last year?" Mr. Hughes continued.

"I am not so sure of that," witness replied.

Lawyer Beck, the Mutual's counsel, here stepped forward and said:

"It to be related to officers of an insurance company is a crime. President Roosevelt will have to modify his race suicide theory."

"It is not a crime," retorted Senator Armstrong, chairman of the investigating committee, "it is merely ridiculous."

Asked to explain what conditions of competition permitted the firm of Raymond & Co. to make $247,000 last year, of which Mr. Thebaud received $147,000, witness said the company did not know what the firm was making out of the business and that, like every merchant and business man, they were in the business for what they could get out of it.

Charles A. Preller, auditor of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, was a witness in the afternoon session. He was asked to produce the book showing the expenditure of $1,134,833 last year for advertising, printing, stationery and postage. The item in the company's annual report of $364,354 for legal expenses, witness said, was for the payment of legal expenses and was paid to the general solicitor.

An entry of $25,000 under law expenses, payable to Robert Olyphant, chairman of the committee on expenditures, the witness knew nothing about. Authorizing this expenditure, witness received a voucher signed by Olyphant as chairman of the committee. He had no idea what that payment was for nor what two other entries of $25,000, each paid to Robert Olyphant, the last one on November 9, 1904, were expended for.

The minutes of the expenditure committee, which were then produced, showed the $25,000 items were paid to Robert Olyphant for law. Witness knew nothing further regarding it. Mr. Preller said his own salary is $10,000 a year. Witness was asked where the $2,500 paid to the Republican congressional committee was entered. He said he did not know. Mr. Hughes then demanded the presence of the man in the company who knows how the $2,500 campaign contribution was booked.

Thomas C. Bell, a confidential clerk of C. H. Raymond & Co., was sworn. He told of a system of advancing moneys to agents and said it was done for the Mutual Life Insurance Company, who gave the firm the money for that purpose. Mr. Bell said there was practically nothing done now to stop rebating by agents. Efforts have repeatedly been made to stop it, but all methods were found futile.

BROWN DENIES HE WAS AN INSANE PATIENT

He Arraigns Dr. Hutchison and Says He Will Appeal to Governor If Necessary.

George C. Brown of New Castle, Pa., a former inmate of the Western Pennsylvania hospital for the insane at Dixmont, who this week publicly charged the attendants at Dixmont with practicing severe cruelties on patients in the hospital, yesterday issued a letter to the public denying the statements made by Dr. H. A. Hutchinson, superintendent of the hospital, that Brown was insane while a patient at Dixmont, and that his statements should not be credited. In his letter Brown reiterates his charges of brutality on the part of the hospital attendants.

Brown states he was not treated as other patients were treated, because the attendants were aware he was not insane and would not permit them to treat him in the manner they did other patients. He says he will use his own money, if necessary, to bring about an investigation, and if necessary he will appeal to Gov. Pennypacker to have his charges investigated. Brown says he has received letters from friends and relatives of patients at Dixmont, asking for his help.

Dr. C. B. King of Allegheny, local representative of the state board of charities, with whom Brown filed his charges, last night stated the charges will be investigated. When told that Brown, in an open letter, denies the statements of Dr. Hutchinson, Dr. King said Brown was admitted to Dixmont on the certificate of two physicians, who had examined him, and that their certificate is sufficient.

He was taken to his home and is in a serious condition, being internally injured.

RIDGELY SEES BRIGHT FUTURE

MONEY RATE NOT SERIOUS

"How could conditions, financial and industrial, be better?"

This question was asked last evening by William B. Ridgely, comptroller of the currency of the United States, summing up statements he had made regarding the prevailing prosperity.

"I have spent the day in Pittsburgh and have talked with a number of men here including an auditor of a United States Steel Corporation interest. He told me that this is to be the banner year of the steel industry. I am now returning from my own state, Illinois, where I visited the state fair, and the reports received from every section there are of the most flattering kind. The agricultural sections could hardly be in better conditions.

"The money stringency shown in the New York money market in the call loan rate going to 7 per cent is nothing to cause alarm. I am only surprised that it did not go higher. The largest crops on record are being moved and it is but natural that there should be exceptionally large requirements of money to do this. At that, the western banks have come to be a very considerable element in this work and this year more than any other they have aided in financing the crop movement. Conditions there are changed also in another way, for there is no longer the large payment of money in actual cash. The crop buyer gives his check and it is as acceptable to the grower as coin or greenbacks.

"There is no truth in the report that a special notice has been sent to the national banks in the New York clearing house association requiring them to bring their reserves up to the legal requirement. The reports of the clearing house are not official and no action could be taken on them. Five times a year examinations are made of the national banks and if the examiners find any bank's reserve below the required percentage, then the notice is issued at once."

Mr. Ridgely spent yesterday here with a number of friends, and attended in the evening the dinner given at the Duquesne club by President James I. Buchanan of the Pittsburgh Trust Company, in honor of Farson Leach, the Chicago bond dealer, who is a close friend of the comptroller. Mr. Ridgely went back to Washington last night on the Baltimore & Ohio.

Mr. Ridgely is himself well informed on the steel trade. He was identified with the old Springfield Iron Company of Springfield, Ill., and when that company was absorbed by the Republic Steel & Iron Company he became connected with the latter.

RAMSEY'S CASE IS IN COURT'S HANDS

Judge Taylor Will Give His Decision in Injunction Suit Next Monday.

THE ARGUMENTS WAX BITTER

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—Judge Taylor of the St. Louis circuit court tonight took under advisement until Monday, morning the application filed by Joseph Ramsey, Jr., recently deposed as president of the Wabash railroad, for an injunction to prevent the voting at the Wabash annual election in Toledo, O., on 11 Tuesday, of stock held by the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain railroad companies.

When the case was called this morning, O. N. Travous, counsel representing the Wabash company, read the answer of the Wabash company to the petition for injunction.

The first witness for the plaintiff was Secretary L. M. Bradbury of the Missouri state board of railroad and warehouse commissioners, who said the latest annual report of the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain roads for the year ending June 30, 1904, showing the financial relations between the Wabash and Missouri Pacific had not been submitted to the commission yet.

E. G. Pryor, assistant to the president of the Wabash, testified that A. C. Bird, vice president and general manager of the Missouri Pacific, is also an officer in the Wabash company.

"Does George Gould hold stock in the Wabash?"

"He does."

"Do his brothers?"

"No, the estate of Jay Gould does."

Why Ramsey Bought Stock.

"Did Mr. Ramsey hold stock during the active administration as president?"

"No, but he owned some debenture bonds."

To further questions Mr. Pryor replied that the books of the company were in New York and that he was unable to refer to them to show the ownership of the stock.

Col. Wells H. Blodgett, general solicitor of the Wabash and one of the counsel for defense, was called.

"Do you know how Mr. Ramsey secured 100 shares of stock of Wabash railway last July?"

"Mr. Ramsey told me that while he was in Europe he decided to buy the stock to make himself eligible for election as director."

This ended testimony for the plaintiff and the defense was called on to produce its witnesses. Counsel for the defense immediately called for Joseph Ramsey, Jr.

"He is not here," said Attorney F. W. Lehmann, counsel for Ramsey. "I did not know you wanted him."

"We want to ask him how he got the 100 shares of stock," said Mr. Cochran.

"You don't seem to have any record here showing that Mr. Ramsey owns any stock," retorted Mr. Lehmann. "Your books and records are all kept in New York in violation of the laws of Missouri."

Lawyers Cross Swords.

"Mr. Ramsey seems to have got his stock after he became president," said Mr. Cochran.

"You made him president for years," returned Mr. Lehmann.

"Yes," said Mr. Cochran, "he was made president when he was not eligible."

"I'll leave that to Col. Blodgett," said Mr. Lehmann.

Counsel for the Wabash, the Missouri Pacific and the Iron Mountain railroads, waived the introduction of testimony for the defense. Col. Blodgett then argued against the granting of the injunction. He said Mr. Ramsey did not profess to be damaged as a stockholder by the voting of stock owned by other railroads, his only plea being that such voting tended to stifle competition.

"If this were true," said Col. Blodgett, "Mr. Ramsey and other stockholders would be benefited rather than otherwise by the stifling of competition, and only the public would have occasion for complaint. The attorney for the plaintiff seems to be proceeding by degrees," he continued. "So far no case has been shown."

"It is necessary to proceed by degrees," interposed Attorney Lehmann, counsel for the plaintiff, "when we are dealing with the Goulds, who violate the laws of Missouri by keeping their books and records in New York."

Fred W. Lehmann, of counsel for Mr. Ramsey, in his argument denounced the Gould railroad systems as being "among the public service corporations which have debauched public morals in America." Continuing, Mr. Lehmann said:

"They are the playthings of men who have no interest in them as industrial enterprises. They are in control of a clique of financial speculators. It was in fighting for the independence of the Wabash that Joseph Ramsey made enemies of those men. His protest against the appointment of A. C. Bird, already traffic manager of the Missouri Pacific, to the same position on the Wabash, was the beginning of his struggle against them."

INVESTMENT CONCERN IS IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

National Company, With Pittsburgh Offices, In Trouble—Secretary Quits City for Rochester, N. Y.

Ex-Judge William D. Wallace of New Castle was yesterday appointed by Banking Commissioner Berkey at Harrisburg, temporary receiver for the National Investment Company of Wilmington, Del., which has offices in Pittsburgh. The Dauphin county court at the same time granted an order on the company, on petition of Attorney General Carson, to show cause, on October 28, "why its business should not be closed up."

The offices of the National Investment Company in Pittsburgh have been located in the German National bank building, Sixth avenue. J. Norman Martin of New Castle is given as president, J. A. Evarts is shown in the directory of the concern as its secretary. Evarts until recently had apartments at the Kinder flats, 900 Western avenue, Allegheny. Inquiry at that place last night brought the information that Evarts recently quit his apartments and removed to Rochester, N. Y.

It is understood that the local offices of the concern have not transacted business for some time.

SAFE CRACKERS SHOOT THE NIGHT WATCHMAN

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—For the fourth time a band of safe-crackers visited the railroad station at Strafford early this morning. They were attempting to blow open the safe, when they were discovered by William Welsh, the night watchman. The thieves had revolvers and Welsh had only a club, but he put up a hard fight. The difference in the weapons told, however, and Welsh was shot in the right leg. The robbers, of whom there were three, escaped.

COUNTRY AND CITY CLASH

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM JEROME J. NORDMAN, Staff Correspondent.

BEAVER, Oct. 6.—The laity of the Methodist Episcopal church had its inning today. Under the rules of the Pittsburgh conference the lay association holds an annual session one day during conference week and this session was held today, simultaneously with the clerical session.

The laity devoted itself to discussing three kinds of politics: Prohibition, a report of which will be found in another column; bookstore politics and general conference politics. All three offered food for conversation.

During the afternoon the committee on resolutions presented the following resolution, together with five others:

Resolved, That this conference protests against the reduced size and efficiency of the Methodist book store in the Methodist Episcopal building in Pittsburgh; and especially against the use of the store room in said building jointly with a shoe store, as unbecoming the dignity of the Methodist church of this region and injurious to its influence.

As one of the delegates from the country districts arose and announced that he thought the shoe store helped economically, Attorney J. W. Kinnear of Pittsburgh, answered as follows:

Needless Slap at Pittsburgh.

"The division of that store comes through the efforts of the New York house. In some way the New York authorities have done this. It is the work of their agency and I think we should go on record and let the New York authorities know what we think of it. How long would the New York store live under such restrictions? Pittsburgh has one of the best-paying book stores in the denomination and is the only one that has been reduced in size."

Samuel Hamilton followed and said: "The action coming through New York is a direct and needless slap at the Pittsburgh conference and Methodism. It is humiliating to us. It was a good paying investment until the New York house refused to permit the Pittsburgh store to sell anything but Methodist literature and shoes. I would offer this amendment: Unless we are given such representation as is creditable to the Pittsburgh conference, we would rather have the book store removed entirely." Long applause followed and the resolution passed.

Then the country members of the association presented an issue in the form of a resolution that a recommendation be made to the electoral lay conference of 1901, to select the five lay delegates to the general conference from the five districts in the conference, giving equal representation to each district, instead of selecting the delegates regardless of territory as heretofore.

God and Methodism in the Country.

Samuel Hamilton and Attorneys Kinnear and Pratt, all of Pittsburgh, thought the resolution inappropriate, inasmuch as geographical location should be second consideration in securing good men. Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Kinnear were lay delegates last year. The country brethren, however, thought differently. One declared: 'Pittsburgh district, the smallest in size in the conference, has been supplying all the 'good men.' There are men isolated in the rural districts that know God and Methodism as well as our city brethren.' The country delegates applauded vigorously as each one of their number told of their qualifications as delegates and when the vote was put the country members won, 53 to 40.

The laity elected the following officers: President, Harvey Henderson; vice presidents, Samuel F. Murphy, J. J. Wirsing, George S. Hocking, Samuel Hamilton and Benjamin Randall; recording secretary, R. T. Wiley; corresponding secretary, E. J. John, and treasurer, F. M. Mechling.

The lay association concluded its session after Bishop Earl Cranston had delivered an address. He discussed appointments, and said he had found out that the appointing power is not where the church thinks it is; that a bishop has great power only in theory, that preachers should tend to their own appointments and leave others alone, as they upset many cabinets by their efforts for others, and that hundreds of good preachers had been driven out of the denomination because improper influences had been brought to place them where they felt they did not belong.

Bishop Cranston Dramatic.

Bishop Cranston concluded by dramatically declaring: "I would step into this aisle and let every man here tramp upon me before I would stand on the episcopal perogative."

At the morning session of the clerical conference Bishop Cranston received a class of seven into full membership in the conference. They were: John Bloom, D. R. Graham, H. E. Lewis, W. L. Wilkenson, W. T. Hartley and H. L. Humboldt. Messrs. Graham, Lewis and Wilkenson will be ordained as deacons, and Messrs. Hartley, Paul Weyand, D. L. Headlee and S. E. Grenneman will be ordained as elders tomorrow.

Bishop Cranston in addressing the class called their attention to some of the essentials of good ministry. Among other things he said: "Don't let your choir manage you. You manage the choir. Have your choir behave with reverence. If they can't act reverently in God's house don't let them come in.

"Don't use a text as a trapeze to swing out into the newest scandal or the latest sensational gossip. Some preachers are showmen without a license. Don't run a show in a church. Beware of revivals. Keep away from the revival trust and evangelistic syndicate. It is an abomination before God. I have seen professional evangelists, by trickery, take advantages of a congregation. I have heard people asked to rise who were not converted. This is to be shunned. It is not fair to make such an appeal. Do not allow yourself to be betrayed in adopting the tricks of the evangelistic trade. You have no right to use trickery."

Next Conference at Butler.

A vote was then taken on the next place of meeting—Butler and Mt. Washington extending invitations. Butler was selected by a vote of 89 to 52.

At the afternoon session the Rev. Dr. J. R. Witherspoon, of Emory church, delivered a strong address on the occasion of the aniversary of the Women's Home Missionary society. The treasurer reported receipts for the year as $46,319. Miss Floy P. Cameron of Johnstown was consecrated a deaconess, a pretty ritual being performed by Bishop Cranston.

The Rev. Dr. S. L. Herben of Chicago followed with an address to the Epworth league. He told of the opportunities the league had and took occasion to add to the many slaps at Bishop Potter by saying: "We need the aid of every church, including the Protestant Episcopal, one of whose prelates desecrated himself by consecrating a rat-hole saloon which he called the subway tavern and which, thank God, has gone out of business."

At the night session the Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, a colored man, who is senior corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education society, spoke on the advancement of the negro in the south. He declared that the colored man should not seek rights and privileges, but should make himself worthy of them. During the evening a "camp fire" was held by the war veterans in the Presbyterian church, addresses being made by the Rev. Drs. T. N. Doyle, Latshaw McGuire, M. J. Sleppy and others.

Many Sunday Assignments.

Many clergymen in attendance at the conference will preach in local pulpits tomorrow as follows: Beaver Presbyterian, Dr. Daniel Dorchester, Jr. and Dr. W. F. Connor; Bridgewater Presbyterian, W. Rodkey and Dr. Joseph Horner; Beaver United Presbyterian, Dr. N. H. Holmes and Dr. H. D. Whitfield; New Brighton Free Methodist, J. W. McIntyre and S. Bly; Rochester Free Methodist, G. S. Pollock and Dr. M. J. Sleppy; Beaver Falls Methodist Episcopal, M. H. Lichliter; Beaver Falls Methodist Protestant, J. N. Munden; New Brighton Presbyterian, J. Buzza; New Brighton Grace Methodist Episcopal, C. T. Murdock, and New Brighton Methodist Protestant, S. W. Macurdy and C. Thompson.

LARGE CLASS GRADUATES.

Beltzhoover Public School Holds Its Fifth Annual Commencement.

Gold Pins for Pupils.

D., chancellor of the Western University of Pennsylvania, and Prof. Edward Rynearson, director of the Pittsburgh High schools. An interesting program was rendered, among the numbers being vocal solos by Miss Helen Grimes, Miss Rose Letzkus and C. M. Carothers, and a recitation by C. M. Carothers.

Henry McEwan, secretary of the school board, presented the class with the diplomas. The class was the largest in the history of the school. The graduates are:

Each member of the board and several of the teachers made remarks. Miss Black replying in behalf of the scholars. The scholars who passed and are now attending high school are: Ida Wilson, Ella Krause, Edward Schlott, Max Gordon, L. Levine, J. Hytowitz and John Thomas.

CHINAMEN ARE ACCUSED OF TRAFFICKING IN OPIUM

Ben Kee of Third avenue and Frank Lupwin of Grant street, Chinamen, were committed to jail last night by Alderman Over on a charge of misdemeanor, preferred by Martha Stanger. It is alleged the Chinamen were selling opium to minors. When searched at the jail a bottle of gum opium, ready for rolling into pills was found on one of them.

Alderman Martin Talks to Men.

Many members and friends of the Pittsburgh Catholic Lyceum attended the first complimentary entertainment given by the lyceum in the assembly room at the lyceum building, 110 Washington street, last night. The feature of the evening was an address by Alderman John A. Martin, who spoke on "Politics and the Young Man." The alderman was entertaining and interspersed his talk with personal anecdotes and observations during his career in politics and as a justice.

Soldiers End Their Reunion.

FAIRMONT, W. VA., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—The fourth annual reunion of the ex-union soldiers of Marion county came to a close today with a parade, which extended over a mile, composed of veterans and school children.

FIFTY SUNDAY SCHOOL BABIES ARE ON HAND

Reception Tendered to Cradle Roll of the Mt. Washington Presbyterian Church.

Fifty Sunday school babies cried, laughed and feasted at the parsonage of the Mt. Washington Presbyterian church yesterday. It is an annual affair, and the one yesterday was successful, 50 babies or their escorts responding as the names were called. As the net enrollment in the cradle department is 76, and the day somewhat cool, the representation of the baby class was considered quite numerous.

The cradle roll includes babies from one day to 3 years old. When the youngsters reach the latter mature age they are transferred to the primary department of the Sunday school, and there were 20 graduates into that department yesterday.

Every mother in the congregation wanted to see that aggregation of babies, so the rule was adopted, as room in the parsonage is limited, that no woman could attend unless she had a baby along. In several cases mothers who had two babies in the class loaned one to a single woman or to some mother whose children had long ago left the cradle roll behind, and thus several additional women diplomatically gained entrance to the scene.

The women and babies first gathered in the parsonage, then all trooped out to the church steps to have their pictures taken by The Gazette photographer. After the return to the parsonage there was a little entertainment, some instrumental music and the song "The Cradle Roll," sung by Mrs. J. A. Potts.

Down in the primary department of the church was spread a long table, standing about a foot from the floor, surrounded by little chairs. Thither the babies and their protectors flocked after the entertainment, and the little ones feasted on custard, rich milk and animal crackers. Some were big enough to sit up alone, but most of them rested on their escorts' laps and were fed. The superintendent of the Sunday school, James L. O'Neill, had sent a ball or a doll for each child, and, between eating and admiring their toys, the children enjoyed a great time.

The reception was given by the Sunday school, and the pastor, the Rev. Dr. C. S. McClelland, and his wife did the honors. Mrs. Frederick V. Cassell, the superintendent of the cradle roll, had charge, with Mrs. Samuel Lynn, assistant superintendent. Miss Charlotte Wible, superintendent of the primary department, was also present.

HIGHWAYMEN NEAR KNOXVILLE

"Joe" Tone, a Peddler, Falls in Their Hands, and Loses His Money.

"Joe" Tone, a peddler living at 1252 Webster avenue, was held up near the High bridge, back of Knoxville, at 5:30 o'clock last evening. He was coming along the road when he met two men who stopped him. He opened his pack for their inspection, and one of them bought a handkerchief from him.

As Tone went to sling the pack on his back again one of the men struck him back of the left ear. He went down and before he could regain his feet the two men had possession of his money bag, which he strung around his neck and which contained $45. They fled and Tone made his way to Knoxville. Quicer Harry Clauser sent him to the county detectives' office, but he got to police headquarters instead and from there was sent to the morgue, where he told his story.

THE OLD WAY AND THE NEW.

Instead of toiling over the mountains by the old ten-day stage coach route, the busy Pittsburger of today avails himself of the modern ten-hour Pullman train method of getting to New York.

Startling But True

Instead of the old ten-year Paderewski method of playing a very little of the world's best music, the modern business man carries into his home the greatest means for the interpretation of all instrumental music the world has known—namely, the

ANGELUS PIANO

If you will spare us ten minutes of your valuable time, Mr. Business Man, we'll prove to you that there's no other investment of $750.00 which you can make that will repay you as an Angelus Piano can and is today doing for people whom you know.

It won't cost you anything but a little time to look into the Angelus Piano matter. Remember—you only live once. Get all the music out of your life that you can. You'll get more with an Angelus Piano than by any other means. We take old style pianos in exchange.

and in ten minutes he is able to play music which Paderewski couldn't play with his fingers if he practiced for a hundred years. "Can't be done?" you say. That's what Cyrano de Bergerac said about Angelus piano playing last spring, and he selected a committee composed of Edwin H. Lemare, Emil Paur and A. M. Foerster (whom he thought would decide in his favor) to test the Angelus. We'll be glad to send you fac-similes of the opinions these gentlemen rendered after giving the Angelus a test which no other piano player dare be subjected to.

Those Handsome 4-in-Hands Worth $1.00 We Are Selling them for the Price of... 55c

See here, gentlemen, aren't you wearing neckties? Are you satisfied with only one necktie or none at all? Really we must scold a little, for you didn't come after those neckties yesterday—we mean the dollar ones we're selling at 55c—in any appreciable numbers. The selling was just about double what it would have been on an ordinary day, when as a matter of fact it should have been eight or ten times larger.

Come in today—we want to show you what we mean by a dollar Four-in-Hand or a regular folding square for 55c.

Maybe you got it into your head that we are stretching the thing a little and giving you an ordinary 50c tie with the price raised. If you did, see the neckties, and have that idea knocked to smithereens.

We have dollar neckwear right in our store that is not one whit more fashionable, or more worthy, than this neckwear we are selling for 55c. Each style is all silk, both outside and inside, and you can have any color that your fancy calls for. Instead of buying these four-in-hands by ones and twos, you ought to buy them by the half dozen, for never in this or any other town has such fine neckwear sold for such a price—55 cents.

Men's Fall Overcoats

Time To Get One---Now

(Second floor, East, Elevator at entrance to Men's Haberdashery.)

One of the most useful overcoats for this time of the year is an oxford or black single-breasted cheviot, with a fly front. It's warm, but not too heavy, and can be used for both day and evening wear.

Plenty of this sort ready now in our Clothing Store, second floor, East.

The $15.00 overcoats are silk lined. Those at $25 and $30 are made of finer quality cloth.

For young men who like to keep in the front rank of fashion there are somewhat similar coats in fancy mixtures, with considerable flare to the skirt and a double-breasted lapel effect. These are $25, $28, $30 and $35, according to quality.

Covert Coats.

Everyone knows the usefulness and comfort of a covert coat. The only question is where to get the best at the price you wish to pay.

There are three main points in a coat—cloth, cut and tailoring. Here you are sure of all-wool cloth, the cut that comes from the best of overcoat makers, and honest workmanship; no sham handsewing in the collars as is frequently the case elsewhere. $15.00, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00, $30.00 and $35.00. From $15.00 up the coats are silk lined, lined with satin in the sleeves to make them slip on and off easily.

Other Overcoats.

Besides those mentioned above there are plenty of other styles, both loose and tight-fitting, from $15.00 to $30.00.

Saturday, October 7, 1905.

The indorsement of the entire Republican county ticket by the Orphans party, represented by their central committee, last evening, will not surprise those political observers who have been watching which way the wind blows. Each day the Democratic-Citizens' stock slumps a few points lower in the popular opinion, as the real motives underlying that amusing alliance become clearly apparent. The Orphans required no supernatural prescience to perceive the inevitable outcome of the election. They have expressed their appreciation of the high character and ability of the Republican candidates in the most practical manner possible, and are to be congratulated upon getting into the band-wagon during its triumphal progress.

A touch of cool autumn weather has improved the yellow fever situation in Louisiana and yesterday laborers were flocking to the sugar making districts. Reports regarding the destruction of the sugar cane crop by storm are found to have been greatly exaggerated. Louisiana has been a sorely stricken state and the whole country will rejoice upon her emergence from her troubles.

The bright-faced, clean-cut young fellows, clad in natty military uniforms, who were conspicuous figures on our downtown streets yesterday, are members of a remarkable movement which originated in this city some 16 years ago and has spread throughout the country. The United Boys' Brigades now boast a membership of 50,000 in the United States, with 10 regiments in Pennsylvania. The organization deserves the highest commendation, enlisting, as it does, youthful enthusiasm in the cause of right living and the best citizenship.

The adoption yesterday of a tariff revision plank by the Massachusetts Republican convention is significant of the trend of intelligent thought throughout the country. Massachusetts Republicans recognize that "rates should be changed when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands the alteration of schedules," and urge their senators and representatives to press upon their party associates consideration of the tariff for the purpose of revision and readjustment. This is the Republican idea. Necessary revision of the tariff by a Republican congress.

The annual report of the Crucible Steel Company, made public yesterday, reveals a most gratifying state of affairs. The wiping out of the deficit during the past year and the adding of a considerable sum to the surplus account, together with the statement that "we see no reason why the company should not begin the payment of dividends on the preferred stock in the near future," evidence the remarkable improvement in the company's condition. Pittsburgh's industrials are built upon a solid foundation and are growing stronger every day under the shining sun of the general prosperity.

Optimistic Englishmen are welcoming rumors of a possible Russo-British understanding which shall remove the long-existing friction and tend toward a permanent peace. Color is given to the prediction by the recent frequent presence of the Russian ambassador at the British foreign office. While such an agreement would give satisfaction in other quarters besides England, and disappointment to certain nations which need not be named, the world will continue skeptical regarding any radical reformation on the part of the "bear that walks like a man" until it sees the proof in black and white.

Prompt failure attended the impudent attempt at Beaver yesterday to secure the indorsement, by the Pittsburgh Lay association of the Methodist Episcopal church, of the candidacy of W. H. Berry for state treasurer. The scheme was quickly seen through and indignantly resented by the shrewd Methodist laymen. The idea that any such resolution as contemplated could receive the indorsement of the lay association's members was regarded as an insult to their good sense. The latest manifestation of Democratic-Prohibition energy will not add to their managers' reputation for political wisdom.

The American Institute of Bank clerks, organized under the auspices of the American Bankers' association, affords a striking illustration of that progressive spirit in the young men of this country which leads them to learn all there is to be learned about the business in which they are engaged. It is a trait which accounts, in part, for the commercial supremacy of the United States among the nations. The Pittsburgh chapter of the institute, which is the largest in the country, numbering some 750 members, is exhibiting commendable enterprise in bringing Prof. Edward Sherwood Meade, of the University of Pennsylvania, to this city to deliver a course of lectures to the bank clerks on vital topics connected with the business. The practical educative results should be of great value.

A Slow Awakening.

The shining example of attending to business which the county officials have set the bureau of police is having a wholesome and decidedly stimulating effect upon that disorganization. The assignment of a squad of plain-clothes men to patrol in the vicinity of the court house will relieve the county detectives of the burden of work which was not properly in their line of duty, but which was necessitated by the exigencies of a situation with which the bureau of police and its superintendent seemed unable to cope. Now that the remedy for the lawless conditions which have prevailed has been pointed out, and its efficacy proved by practical demonstration on the part of Chief Robert G. Robinson of the county detectives, the superintendent of police, with a fair degree of celerity for him, takes the hint. "We have known for some time that more men were needed," says Supt. Wallace. And during this "some time" assaults and robberies were matters of nightly occurrence. "We intended to place more men on night work before there was any stir about the county detectives." It is a pity, then, the intention was not carried into effect before the community became thoroughly disgusted with the brand of "protection" afforded by its bureau of police.

Now that a reasonable degree of order has been restored in a district where formerly disorder was rampant, the city police are slowly awakening to the duty which they should have performed and are ostentatiously performing it now. While it may be "never too late to mend," the public would be better pleased were there no such necessity for tardy reformation on the part of our "guardians" of the public safety.

Gorman's Confidence Game.

Senator Arthur Pue Gorman's great political confidence game, in trying to foist the Poe amendment on the people of Maryland, is receiving some well-deserved, vigorous jolts these days. But the sly old warrior is dying hard. He has the fight of his life on his hands, and we believe that sure defeat will be his fate in November. Every member of the ring has been marshaled for work on the stump, and the way they are insisting that the iniquitous disfranchising measure is perfectly harmless is evidence that they feel the ground slipping from under them. The bosses that have been forced to the front have been compelled to admit that what they mean by "white supremacy" is but another term for Democratic supremacy, and that, of course, must be construed as indicating their own supremacy. The manhood of Maryland, however, is thoroughly aroused, together with those justice-loving, fair-dealing Democrats who are not under the influence of Gormanism. The Poe amendment speakers are pleading with the voters to trust them, just this once, and one anti-amendment speaker puts the case clearly when he says:

It is the old story of the confidence game which has been played over and over again upon the innocent victim. He is told by the guileless "friend" that he only requires his check or his hard cash to fool someone else in order that both of them may obtain tenfold advantage from the temporary use of the money for this worthy purpose; but how many times has the guileless farmer or the innocent investor of our city waited in vain for the return of either the young man who has borrowed the money or of his hard-earned cash, with which he has so generously parted? And yet such, in effect, is the actual proposition of the Democratic bosses to the voters of this state. They ask us to barter away our priceless privilege of self-government for a mess of race prejudice, and afterward to trust their integrity not to apply the law against us which we have given them the opportunity to enforce.

None but the innocent and ignorant can be taken in by the specious pleas of Senator Gorman and his army of speakers who are flooding the state with their misstatements. There are enough intelligent voters in both the Democratic and Republican parties to resent the insult to their understanding. The important work to be done in Maryland on election day will be to see that all such men vote. If they do, the result will not be in doubt.

Leisurely Londoners.

We are not surprised that the effort to establish the American "quick-lunch" system in London has failed. The wonder is that the promoters had the courage to attempt it. London is the slowest city in the world. Towns in China had trolley cars before London. Great bodies move slowly. The biggest city in the world is no exception. Any American who has tried to do business in London knows that methods there are 50 years behind the times. If one wants to see the principal of some little one-horse business, it is necessary to make an appointment a day or two in advance, and then the chances are that when one calls, the gentleman will be engaged in the arduous occupation of imbibing afternoon tea.

British sympathy toward our "quick-lunch" system is based upon a typical misunderstanding. The Londoners thought the descriptive "quick" referred to the rapidity with which the food is to be eaten, rather than the celerity with which it is served, which is the real meaning of and reason for "quick lunch." The more quickly food is brought by the waiter, the more time is there for its consumption. Londoners saw "dyspepsia" written all over the project. They never stopped to reason, and the result is, they will never know the blessings of the American "quick lunch." The average Englishman, between getting-up time and bedtime, is the receptacle for five meals: Breakfast, luncheon, tea, dinner and supper. How he accomplishes the feat, we know not; sufficient for our argument is the fact that he does it. The amount of time consumed in the occupation of eating can easily be computed. If, say, two of these meals were conducted on quick-lunch schedules, the Englishman would save about an hour daily, which could be devoted to more profitable purpose. But the point would not appeal to him. His great-grandfather never did anything of the kind, and he is not going to either. George the Third never patronized the "quick lunch." And that is enough for John Bull.

The Business Situation.

The week's contribution to the evidence of present and prospective prosperity was the government report on the condition of the cotton crop. During the early part of the summer, when the country's cereal crops were giving promise of record-breaking yields, subsequently fulfilled, it looked as if there would be a large shortage in cotton. This was based upon the reduction of acreage and the fact that the crop entered the season of danger in relatively poor condition. The government's figures this week, however, show that the deterioration in the crop during August and September was almost inappreciable, and that the average condition at date of maturity is fully 5 per cent higher than the average for the past 10 years. As a result estimates of the total yield have been revised and the indications now point to a crop of 11,000,000 bales. A decline in the market price of the staple immediately followed the appearance of the government's estimates, and an increase in exports is almost a certainty. This is important in a financial as well as a commercial way, because shipments of cotton to foreign consumers are depended upon to turn the sterling exchange market in our favor just at the time when imports of gold will replace the currency shipped to the west and south.

All departments of the iron and steel industry present the appearance of great buoyancy. The same is true of the coke trade, and further improvement has taken place in the coal trade. Prices are firm and advancing, and the principal anxiety of both producers and consumers now relates to the prompt delivery of materials. Mercantile business is now feeling the beneficial effects of industrial activity, and all branches of trade have entered the last quarter of 1905 with the confident feeling that it will be the best of the year.

Rates for call loans to stock exchange borrowers advanced to the highest of the year, but the movement was not accompanied by any apprehension. On the contrary, the very day that the money stringency was most pronounced, the average of stock market values reached the highest ever quoted. Wall street clings to the idea that high loaning rates will be of short duration, but in view of the fact that there appears to be world-wide activity in the money market, and that foreign rates of discount are advancing, it is possible that Wall street may be mistaken, and that the loaning value of money will remain relatively high for the remainder of the year. If this should prove to be so, there will be more or less liquidation in the stock market, accompanied by lower prices. Experienced operators have marveled over the manner in which security values have been sustained, despite the apathy of the public and the increasing cost of speculation. The popular explanation is that the floating supply of stocks is in the hands of powerful speculative cliques, who are strong enough to hold them until money market conditions become more favorable, when they will be unloaded upon the public at a higher range of prices.

As to the soundness of the general commercial situation, Dun's report of failures for the past quarter shows a decrease of more than 12 per cent in number and 37 per cent in amount of defaulted indebtedness as compared with the corresponding quarter last year. Dun's conclusion is that "the business situation is more healthy at the opening of October than it was in the middle of the year, while both comparisons show a great improvement over 1904."

A Democratic contemporary, taking advantage of Mr. Bryan's absence, remarks that he is the greatest living master of the epigram. A wise man once defined the epigram as a neat way of saying something that isn't so.

"Don't use your text for a trapeze to swing out into scandal and gossip," Bishop Fowler advised the young preachers at Beaver. There are rhetorical acrobatics which older preachers, too, might well avoid.

Kansas students have formed an incandescent club to exploit the deeds of red-heads, when we all know it's the bald-heads (the babies especially) that rule the world.

Chicago has passed an ordinance prohibiting the exhibition of freaks in the public streets. An aqua-bourbon candidate would doubtless be run in on sight.

The incarceration of an Omaha deaf mute for using improper language is evidence that while justice may be blind, she seems to understand finger talk.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

You Will Reach the Place to Which You Are Going, Sure.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Are you one of those who expect to reach heaven by the broad road?

There are a lot of people, intelligent people, college graduates, good scholars, prosperous and successful business men, who know right from wrong, and who know they are not living right.

Do you think these men expect, or even hope, to reach the heavenly land?

And each and every one of these will argue, and argue well, that those who do not live right cannot die right, consequently will not be admitted to the home of the righteous—those who have lived right.

* * *

Should you want to go to Greensburg you wouldn't go out on the Butler pike, not if you have a little bit of common sense.

Isn't it just as foolish and nonsensical to attempt to reach paradise by following a road that leads to the bad lands?

Why is it that so many people travel through life along highways and byways which they know do not lead to the place where they want to go?

The only reasonable answer is, or seems to be, that they were not properly reared. Instead of being so environed, and so taught, that the great truths concerning life become a part of themselves, thus making right living, or righteousness, normal conditions of their lives.

That which you learned while you were growing into manhood is a part of yourself, while that which you have learned since is more like an appendage, or something pasted or tacked on.

* * *

You will agree that the time to start a man right is when he is a boy, and quite a young boy.

How is it about your boy?

You may know, or think you know, that your neighbor is not starting his boy right. Don't let that worry you, but see to it that your boy is taught to do right, and so environed that he will incline to the right at all times.

There would be no bad boys if parents would rear their children as well as they can tell other folks how to do it; at least there would not be nearly so many, for the average parent knows right from wrong.

Why, then, are parents not as good as they ought to be, or live as well as they know how?

Simply because they are controlled by feeling and not by knowledge. Right feeling makes right living very easy, second nature, as it were, for your feelings rather than your reason or judgment, give rise to the impulses upon which you act.

* * *

How, then, are we to secure more good men and women?

Simply by training more boys and girls properly; that is, so to educate them that their feelings will be humane, for inhumanity is at the bottom of nearly, if not quite all, wrong-doing. Robert Burns well and truly said, "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

When women's clubs get through discussing the affairs of other nations, wrestling with psychological problems and monkeying with politics, maybe they may take up the problem of how to provide more good men and women. The demand for these is great and constantly growing.

The study of mental phenomena may be interesting, but the study of humanity will prove to be both interesting and profitable.

Luther Burbank can furnish timely topics for women's clubs, and he will be glad to do so.

* * *

Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver belongs to the Burbank order of men. His specialty is boys, and he is having great success in changing bad boys into good ones.

More power to him, don't you say?

Judge W. H. McEwen of the juvenile court, Chicago, is another believer in boy culture, and he much prefers the real boy, the rough and tumble sort, to work on. As you will see from the following taken from one of his addresses, he hasn't much faith in the "pet" boy:

"Little Lord Fauntleroy has been held up as an example to the boys of the country, and he exemplifies some modern ideas in regard to the rearing of children. He is not the kind of an example that should be held up to a boy. Outdoor sports should be encouraged, manly and healthful. These are the boys that are the hope of the country. There is altogether too little opportunity for boys in a big city to participate in these outdoor sports, and they should be encouraged."

* * *

Dr. Winship, editor of the Journal of Education, has been out to Denver and has this to say about Judge Lindsey and his work:

"Judge Lindsey of Denver does as much to prevent boys from getting into trouble as he does to save them after they have gotten into it. He has had organized a juvenile athletic association, in which the boys from 10 to 16 play under the guidance of an officer of his court, though not as an officer. It is not merely, or chiefly, a baseball team, or football team, but includes all kinds of field sports.

"I was in Denver when one of the meets came off. There were four beautiful gold medals given by different persons who are ready to lend a hand any time and every time. Three medals were for 100-yard dash, 50-yard dash and 20-yard dash. Then there were two nines selected, to compete for the finest medal in baseball.

"There was an A No. 1 baseball for the one who could throw a ball the farthest, open to all. A first-class baseball glove to the one who had the best record in catching. An order for a suit of clothes for the boy who would jump the highest. An order for a pair of shoes to the boy who would jump the farthest. Then there were several other prizes, such as a sweater, baseball bat, etc.

"All the kids of the slums were wild for membership in the association with chances at the prizes. A number of noble men were present, round among the boys for acquaintanceship, observation and ultimate help.

"Each member of the association had free car tickets given to the grounds and back, but he had to come to Judge Lindsey's court to get them. There was a band to lead them in their march about the city before starting, and it went out with them and played at the grounds. This was a fine boys' band."

YOU AND I.

When first we wandered, you and I
Oh! you and I, o'er fell and field,
There seemed a contest—earth and sky,
Which should the greater glory yield.

Earth showed so fair, her thousand things
Of beauty born, of liveliest hue;
While little clouds, like angel wings,
Came flitting o'er the boundless blue.

Then, as we gazed, the Picture moved
Toward us, and the perfect grew
To yet more perfect; and it loved,
The Picture loved us, me and you.

Now all is altered, faded, dim;
The carmine tints are turned to gray;
While winter, like a jailer grim,
With iron hand shuts in the day.

Yet still we wander, you and I,
With spirits free, not winter-bound;
To us the sun is still on high,
The garlands blossom underground.

Earth is but sleeping, all is there—
Her fruit, her flowers, in long array;
Her robe of state and jewels rare,
To wait her coronation day.

For suns may rise and suns may set,
And summer leaves lie tempest-strewn;
But you and I can never forget
The glories we have loved and known.

MOB SEARCHES WALL STREET FOR "RAFFLES"

Financial District Thrown Into a State of Excitement by the Actions of Frenzied Crowd.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The advertising scheme of a local newspaper threw the entire financial district into a state of excitement today. For two hours Wall street and the nearby thoroughfares were filled with a compact mob engaged in the pleasant occupation of assaulting peaceful citizens on a more or less genuine surmise that of the persons so mauled and buffeted one at least would prove to be a certain journalist, "Raffles," for whose capture the newspaper in question had offered a $100 reward. "M. Short" before noon, the approach to the sub-treasury was so blocked that access to it was impossible. The steps of the J. P. Morgan & Co. banking house and of the banking house of H. B. Hollins & Co. became filled with interested spectators and all attempt to clear them proved unavailing. The newspaper in question had announced that its "mysterious" man would pass the corner of Wall and Broad streets at midday and a mob of 5,000 had assembled on the spot to be present at his capture. A small riot was caused by a stranger resenting the persistency of the crowd with bare fists, and telephone messages were soon crowding over the police wires demanding reinforcements of police. The situation assumed such an alarming phase that the big iron doors of the sub-treasury were ordered closed, something never before done during business hours in the history of the sub-treasury, and with all this row, no one found "Raffles" and his $100.

Must Work on Yom Kippur.

There is much dissension among the 900 Hebrew employes of the postoffice in this city because many of them cannot be spared from duty on Jewish holy days. Those who stay away without leave will be punished by a fine and several days' suspension. Twelve delinquents were fined for staying away last Saturday, Yom Kippur is the most sacred of all the Jewish holy days. It is the Day of Atonement and begins at sundown next Sunday evening, lasting 24 hours. Postmaster Willcox is giving as many as possible holidays, but those who remain away without leave are liable to discharge.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to Close.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. sent out the following notice today to stock exchange houses and other borrowers of money from them:

"Monday, October 9, being the Jewish Day of Atonement, no business will be transacted at our office. Loans cannot be repaid on that day, and substitution of collateral cannot be made. Unless you desire your loan to stand over Monday please repay the same today. Exchanges of securities can be made on Saturday until noon if desired." This was one of the important factors making for stiffness in today's money market.

Dr. Parkhurst Is Amazed.

Dr. Parkhurst, in a statement today on the subject of business immorality as revealed by the life insurance investigation, called upon the church to do its part in raising the standard of business methods. He is of the opinion that the situation calls for action on the part of the district attorney. "I am amazed," said Dr. Parkhurst, "at the brazen effrontery with which the admissions of Mr. McCall and others were volunteered. It is a matter for District Attorney Jerome and others charged with the prosecution of criminals to push to the utmost of their ability."

More Trouble for Subway Tavern.

There is not much left of Bishop Potter's subway tavern, but even the little that remains was a temptation that led thieves to jail. They were detected today by three detectives just as they had finished loading a bag with pewter mugs, bottles of liquor and the beatified bung-starter. The three prisoners, together with the liquors they used to try to sell in the tavern, were taken to police headquarters.

City Light Plant Almost Ready.

The city's first experiment at municipal electric lighting will be started shortly. It is a lighting plant which the city has been constructing in Delancey street, under the Williamsburg bridge approach, which is now almost completed and nearly equipped. With the lighting station the city has built an incinerator. The fuel used in this will be the vast quantities of waste paper and other rubbish gathered annually by the street cleaning department. The power developed by the incinerator will be used to generate electricity in the lighting plant. The light plant will have a capacity of about 400 horsepower and will light the entire Williamsburg bridge.

August Belmont Is Improving.

August Belmont, who was operated on yesterday for appendicitis, is already on the high road to recovery. The physicians at the General Memorial hospital said this morning: "Mr. Belmont passed a good night. No unfavorable symptoms have followed the operation. The patient needs only quiet to assure his rapid recovery. He will not be moved from the hospital for two weeks."

Young Bank Thief Indicted.

Henry Ambrose Leonard, the young man who got away with $338,000 worth of the National City bank's securities and later confessed the deed, was indicted by the grand jury today for forgery in the second degree. He will plead before Recorder Goff in part 1, general sessions, early next week.

Maligners and Slanderers.

The persistent and malignant circulation of slanderous untruths relating to the administration of the affairs in Pennsylvania is in almost every instance the result of disappointed ambition, and undertaken from motives of revenge. Character is being assailed, the best men in the state are being maligned and vilified by men posing as reformers, who, in not a single instance, when brought to the test, have been able to make their vile imputations good.—Kittanning Tribune.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

To have the reputation of being the best paid traveling man in the United States is in itself no mean honor for a man to possess, and when it is known that along with this princely remuneration goes the responsibility of selecting the best traveling men for one of the largest and best systematized corporations in the country, the esteem in which he is held by his contemporary drummers is all the more hearty. Such are the honors held by one William D. Duncan, or, as he is known to thousands of traveling men over the country, "Billy" Duncan. He is designated by the title, "special from the house," and under this card he plays into business where the other fellow cannot make good. It is just this thing, by the way, that Mr. Duncan is paid for—making good where the other fellow has fallen down, and along with his own work, training in a new man for the work that the other fellow could not do.

Mr. Duncan has just spent three weeks in the Pittsburgh territory, chatting with tobacco dealers and clinching orders from them where another could not have done it. He was sent here to rejuvenate a popular brand of cigar, one that retails at a dime and that is relished by good smokers. The fellow that had been endeavoring to do the thing could not do it in the manner that enthused the house in New York, and Duncan came here. He completed his work and left last night for a similar campaign in the Philadelphia district. He was accompanied to the Union station by a number of traveling friends from the Hotel Henry, where he makes his headquarters while in Pittsburgh.

Hotel Clerks Entertained.

Members of the Hotel Clerks' association of Pittsburgh enjoyed possibly the best monthly meeting last night that has been held since the organization was effected. When they assembled at the Hotel Boyer and were shown to the assembly room for the evening, they were pleasantly surprised to find the room appropriately decorated with drawings, cartoons and mottoes. In the center of the room stood a large table, on which were numerous pipes, a big bowl of tobacco and boxes of cigars and tobies; about the table were easy chairs. On another table were spread the delectables. After the business session the entertainment came, the hosts being the three clerks of the Boyer, Peter S. Combs, who is president of the association; W. L. Seelbohm, who is secretary and treasurer, and J. B. Watson. The hosts saw to it that every member was happily entertained. The association is growing rapidly by extending to surrounding cities and towns of Western Pennsylvania.

"The Reach of the Hidden Hand," by Derek Vane, a thrilling detective story.

The illustrated articles in tomorrow's issue represent a more than ordinary wealth of variety and interest.

SCHOOL BOARD GETS EMPHATIC

THEIR STATUS FIRMLY FIXED

Something that no other school board ever did before has been done by the board of the Mt. Washington schools in the Thirty-second ward. The board has issued a printed set of resolutions fixing the status of principal, assistant principals and teachers. One might suppose that public schools have existed long enough to enable principals, assistants and teachers to know their own status, but nevertheless in many of the schools of Pittsburgh there is and has been lots of bickering among these educators of the young. Thus in one school a principal may not permit the assistants to do any of the work of a principal because he or she may fear to be supplanted by an assistant able to show good executive ability, or because of a prejudice against the assistant principal. In another school the assistant principals may neglect the teaching work, for assistants are usually also regular teachers, or may devote too much attention to the work of assistant principal. In another school again, teachers may be indisposed to accept suggestions from assistant principals, because the assistant "is only a teacher after all."

Board Passes Resolutions.

Whichever of these troubles afflicted the Mt. Washington schools the directors will not tell, but at any rate the board met on September 5, adopted the resolutions mentioned, and has just had them printed, in artistic pamphlet form. Yesterday copies were distributed to the principal, Prof. R. M. Cargo, who has had charge of the school 38 years; to the assistant principals, Misses Sarah E. Crone, Blanche H. McCann and Maud E. Milholland, and to the teachers, of whom there are 36. The board means business. The resolutions recite that:

> Whereas, Harmony and good will among the working forces of the schools are essential to good results, morally and intellectually, and whereas questions have arisen as to the respective duties, powers and responsibilities of the principal, assistant principals and teachers, therefore, that the status of each may be understood by all and that to the faithful efforts of all may be accorded due respect and credit, and that a disposition of mutual support may everywhere prevail in the schools of the Thirty-second ward, the board of directors of the Mt. Washington sub-district schools declares as follows.

Then follow eight resolutions. The first directs the assistant principals to carry out the instructions of the principal; they are to consult frequently with him and they may visit other schools in Allegheny county for the purpose of procuring the best educational methods and principles.

Duties of Assistants.

The second resolution explains the duties of the assistants toward the teachers, directing them to familiarize themselves with each teacher's grade and work; the third makes the principal's decision final, when differences of opinion or disputes arise concerning educational questions in the schools, unless his judgment be revised or reversed by the board; by the fourth rule the board pledges itself not to entertain any complaint unless it be in writing and signed by the person making the complaint.

The fifth resolution says: "The relations of all parties connected with the schools shall be frank and free at all times. Secret conniving and scheming are at all times forbidden."

The sixth rule explains the duties of the principal and his assistants and requires the principal, before assigning the teachers to their respective rooms, to consult with the assistant principals and with each teacher whose position may be changed, and the principal must give a list of the appointments to the board, and to the assistant principals a list of the names of the persons making up the corps of teachers, in each assistant principal's school.

The seventh resolution tells how an appeal from a teacher dissatisfied with her assignment shall be made to the board, and the eighth resolution requests all to aid in making the results effective and to report violations to the board. The resolutions are approved by the president, A. G. Smith, and the secretary, David Bissett.

Robinson Invades "Yellow Row."

County Detective R. G. Robinson yesterday made a raid in the "Yellow Row" district. Five women were arrested charged with selling liquor illegally. Alderman Toole held them in $500 bail for court. Those arrested are: Bessie Goodman, 521 Second avenue; Bessie Williams, 528 Second avenue; Kate Levivne, 512 Second avenue; Minnie Burnstein, 516 Second avenue, and Annine Dean, 526 Second avenue.

SIEBERT CAN EAT NOW, SAYS BARR

Councilman Declares City Assessor Need Not Worry About Paying Bail Bond.

CASE AGAINST HIM FIXED UP

"Mr. Siebert can now eat in peace. He need not worry any longer about paying any bail bond for me. The matter has been fixed up. It was only a business misunderstanding. I want it announced that the matter is settled so that Mr. Siebert can regain his appetite."

Dr. A. Martin Barr, common councilman from the Eighteenth ward, made this statement yesterday when he learned that City Assessor E. E. Siebert had declared he could "not eat" because of worrying over Dr. Barr's action in a suit brought against Dr. Barr by George W. Baum of the East End, for a claim of $800, in which Siebert became Dr. Barr's bondsman for the sum of $1,500, and which Siebert said had been forfeited.

"The bail was never forfeited," said Dr. Barr. "If it was, I never knew it. I appeared before Alderman Groetzinger on the day set for the hearing and met Mr. Baum and his attorney. I explained to them that my failure to pay the loan of $800 was a misunderstanding and Mr. Baum asked when I would be ready to pay. I said I could not tell until I had talked with business associates who were engaged with me in the transaction.

Begged Barr to Be Candidate.

"I said I would see my partners and left the alderman's office, stating that I would return and let him know. I did return, but Mr. Baum and his attorney had left.

"No person will be compelled to pay any bail bond for me, nor will there be a hearing of the charge made against me by Mr. Baum. The matter is settled. I hope that this news will cheer up Mr. Siebert and help him to eat again with his former vigor.

"Siebert says that when he retired from councils he named me as his successor, and that I was nominated because he recommended me. The fact of the matter is that Siebert met me downtown and almost got down on his knees to beg me to run for common council. He said that if I ran for councils he would be appointed superintendent of Highland park, and needed the job because he was property poor. I ran for councils to accommodate Siebert and to get him a job."

At the time of which Councilman Barr speaks, Siebert was a Republican and was appointed superintendent of Highland park by Director McCandless. He had formerly opposed the Republican organization and toward the close of his term as superintendent of Highland park allied himself with the Citizens party. He next secured a job as city assessor under the present administration.

Siebert on Barr's Bond.

The $800 transaction, in which Dr. Barr was engaged, occurred when Dr. Barr borrowed $800 from George W. Baum and afterwards gave a check to Baum for the amount, the check being returned to Baum marked, "not sufficient funds." It was stated yesterday that Dr. Barr had given a second check, which was also worthless, but this Dr. Barr denies. He said the first check, which was the only one given by him to Baum, was not paid because a check which he, Barr, had received from another person, was found to be deficient, and that this put him temporarily in an embarrassing position which, he claims, was taken advantage of by Baum.

Baum made information against Councilman Barr charging him with obtaining money under false pretense, and City Assessor Siebert went on Barr's bail bond for the sum of $1,500. Siebert said yesterday the bond had been forfeited and that he feared he would have to pay the amount of the bond, which would require him to sell some of his property, as he did not have the ready cash. "I have worried over the matter until I cannot eat," he said.

ITALIAN WITH DIRK KNIFE TERRORIZES PENN AVENUE

An Italian with a dirk knife created some excitement in Penn avenue, near Thirteenth street, at 11 o'clock last night. He struck at Henry Grader, of Fourteenth street and Spring alley, who was passing by, and narrowly missed him. People who saw the attack crowded around, but the Italian flourished the knife so vigorously that none dared catch him, and he ran down to the Allegheny river, followed by the crowd, and escaped.

PIECE OF CHEESE CAUSES DEATH

Lodges in the Throat of Dixmont Inmate and She Strangles in a Few Minutes.

FALLS AND BREAKS HIS NECK

Pettie D. Elliott, aged 52, an inmate at the Western Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane at Dixmont, choked to death on a piece of cheese at that institution at 6 o'clock last night. While the woman was at supper it was noticed that she was strangling. The attendants went to her aid and did everything they could to relieve her. She was possessed of a frail constitution, and before the physician could remove the cheese from her throat she strangled to death.

Edward Kramer, aged 50, an employe of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, was almost instantly killed while at work yesterday evening at the Allegheny barns, Beaver and Island avenues. Kramer, who lived at 523 Sturgeon street, was on a ladder cleaning windows and fell backward alighting on his head. He was carried to the office of Dr. W. C. Hall across the street, and died there within five minutes after the accident from a broken neck.

On account of the heavy fog yesterday morning two men were killed at Pitcairn and another seriously injured. E. J. Quinliver, aged 29, and J. S. Bage, aged 26, both of Pittsburgh, were cut in two by a shifter. S. H. Kennler, a brakeman of Wilmerding, was knocked from the top of a car and fell on his head, receiving a deep scalp wound. He was taken to his home in Caldwell avenue, Wilmerding. Quinliver and Bage were employed as car repairers in the Pitcairn yards of the Pennsylvania railroad, and were repairing a broken chain on a car. The fog prevented them from seeing a shifting engine which backed into the car and they were thrown under the wheels. Kennler was thrown from his train by a collision of cars during the shifting.

Albert Marshall of Bakerstown, West Deer township, was burned to death last night on his farm. It is supposed that a lantern he was carrying exploded and set fire to his clothing. His body was found by the farm hands lying in a field.

Patrick Bailey, aged 12, of Summer station was killed yesterday afternoon by a train on the West Penn railroad. He was employed at the H. J. Heinz glass works at Sharpsburg, and was crossing the tracks on his way to work when run down.

An unknown man was struck and instantly killed at 9:50 o'clock last night by a train in the yards of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad at McKees Rocks.

The inquest into the death of James Mulcahy, who was found dead in front of No. 4 Beltler street, last Monday, was held yesterday, the jury rendering a verdict of death from alcoholism.

URGE ENGLAND TO WAR ON THE OPIUM TRAFFIC

International Reform Bureau Asks Co-Operation of United States and Japan in Suppressing Drug Trade.

Great Britain is to be called upon, in the "interest alike of good morals and of the world's legitimate commerce," to release China from treaty compulsion to tolerate the opium traffic. A resolution to that effect was passed at a meeting in the Hotel Henry of the directors of the International Reform bureau of Washington and Pittsburgh. The resolutions recite that the traffic has degraded and impoverished more than 100,000,000 of Chinese. Japan and the United States are urged to press this action upon Great Britain.

The National Federation of Churches is urged to authorize a test and official vote of the great denominations on the matters of the drink evil, gambling and other vices, such vote to be considered as representative of the position of the churches with reference to these issues.

Present at the meeting were Directors I. F. Yoder, J. W. Houston, J. J. Porter, Wilbur F. Crafts, and A. H. Eames, all of whom, except the last named, are trustees of the International bureau.

GREAT TELESCOPE'S TEST PROVES VERY SUCCESSFUL

Keeler Memorial Instrument of Allegheny Observatory Brings Out Delicate Markings Never Before Seen in a Pittsburgh Sky.

The great Cassegrain reflecting telescope of the Allegheny observatory was last night turned on the heavens for the first time. The telescope has been in course of construction and erection for many months, and its first test was anticipated with much interest.

The new telescope has been erected as a memorial to Prof. James E. Keeler, the former director of the observatory. The fund to meet its cost was contributed by his friends in Pittsburgh and Allegheny.

As the sky was clear last evening the views of the moon and of the planets Saturn and Jupiter were very fine and the present director, Dr. Schlessinger, and Mr. Brashear were greatly pleased with the preliminary test. Many difficult and delicate markings were seen on the lunar surface never before seen in a Pittsburgh sky. Six of the satellites of Saturn were readily seen, and the magnificent belt system of Jupiter came out with much clearness and beauty.

Preparations will at once be made for photographing the stars with this telescope for a research in which Dr. Schlessinger has been engaged for some time, and Drs. Schlessinger and Curtis will commence a spectroscopic examination of some important stars which they have tabulated for the purpose. Great things are expected of this new instrument and the near future promises some of the good results.

Plans are now being made for the erection of a great dome for the 30-inch refracting telescope. This will be the finest instrument in the building and will cost about $80,000. When this is completed Pittsburgh will have one of the finest astro-physical observatories in the world.

TWO ARE ACCUSED.

Allegheny Police Arrest Men Charged With Stealing Moulds.

Detectives King and Speer of Allegheny yesterday arrested Edward St. Clair, aged 27, of Beaver avenue, and Fred Keller, aged 34, of 1507 Sheffield street, on information made before Alderman Samuel Abegnatney by Kirk Davis, superintendent of the National Casket Company.

Davis charges the men with stealing brass moulds valued at $2,000 from the company. Warrants were issued for two others said to be implicated. Their names are withheld until the police can arrest them.

Supt. Davis says the stealing has been going on for months and that the brass has been sold to a junk dealer. Keller, it is said, confessed and accused St. Clair and two other men of having part in the thefts. Both men formerly worked at the casket factory at Beaver avenue and Mulberry street.

Battle for Class Flag.

After smearing the roof and flag pole of the Oakmont high school with tar the juniors decoyed the members of the senior class by displaying the junior flag on the pole. The seniors fell into the trap and ascended to the roof. Efforts to remove the flag resulted in a general ruining of clothing. When the seniors got to the ground again the juniors attacked them. A lively scrimmage followed, the seniors being worsted. Their adversaries afterward celebrated their victory in a noisy march over the borough.

SCANDRETT IS HOTLY ACCUSED

Allegheny Man Says Director Threatened Him Before Policeman Beat Him Up.

OFFICER TO BE ARRESTED

Back of an information made yesterday by Harry Reddinger of 512 Dunloe avenue, Third ward, Allegheny, before Alderman S. J. Toole, charging Policeman Charles Smith of Allegheny with aggravated assault and battery, is a story of alleged intimidation involving, according to the statement made by Reddinger to a Gazette reporter last night, Director of Public Safety Scandrett.

The information against Policeman Smith recites that on September 16, the day of the Republican primaries, Reddinger was a watcher at the polls in the Third ward. Upon the approach of Florence Vick he challenged him. He says that he wanted Vick to swear that he would support the Republican ticket. Director Scandrett is said to have then warned Reddinger that he would get into trouble before the day was over. No attention was paid to the warning.

In the afternoon Officer Smith appeared on the scene, it is alleged, and grabbed Reddinger by the collar and struck him over the head with a handybilly. He was then dragged through a back street to a patrol box, according to his allegations, being thrown over a sewer drop and a barrel of potatoes which was standing on the sidewalk. As a result of his injuries he was confined to his room until yesterday.

In the event of Policeman Smith's arrest he will probably be given a hearing before Alderman Toole on Thursday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock.

Scandrett's Alleged Threats.

Reddinger's condition, physically, was very serious for several days after the assault. Dr. G. L. Ahlers, who attended him, says the man had a blood clot on the brain from the effects of a blow on the left temple. A severe sneezing paroxysm relieved him of the clot, and operated to avert an operation to save his life.

"Director Scandrett has threatened me before," said Mr. Reddinger last night. "Several months ago he held me up in the dead of night, under the shadows of a building, and made ugly threats. It was at the time I had the Minerva club closed. Scandrett was accompanied by another man, who stayed back in the darkness. I told Scandrett to stay away from me unless he had a warrant for my arrest. He has had it in for me ever since. On the day of the Republican primaries he threatened me again. He certainly carried out his threat that time.

"When I reached the polls at 2 o'clock on the day of the primary election, Florence Vick was there. Vick is messenger to Scandrett at city hall. Some of the men on the board did not seem to me to be real Republicans and I challenged the entire board. I would be satisfied, I said, if they would agree to support the nominee who qualified at the primary. The board agreed to this, and Vick wanted to swear them. I objected to Vick on the ground that he was not a Republican. He is one of the patentees of the 'Independent' party, and has always been a citizen. The board was sworn by a Republican, and then Vick tried to vote. I challenged him and the board sustained my objection.

When Smith Got Busy.

"For a while I remained about the polls and then went over to town to get my week's wages. On James street I met Director Scandrett.

"'Reddinger, you are going to get into trouble before night for challenging Vick,' he said to me.

"'I told him I did not think Vick had any right to vote.

"'All right, we'll get you before night,' he replied, in a threatening way.

"Several friends of mine heard this and have assured me that they will testify when the case against Smith comes up for hearing. One of these men says he heard Scandrett remark that he was waiting for a 'certain' policeman. I walked to the polls again to help a man mark his ticket. Policeman Smith, who walks a beat in the lower end of the Eleventh ward, was standing near the door. Smith walked up to me.

"'Well, Harry,' he said, 'I've voted.'

"I told him that if I had been there he would not have voted, because he was not a Republican.

"Quick as a flash he struck me on the head and shoulder with a billy. I was knocked senseless. Smith dragged me to a grocery store at the corner of James street. Scandrett was in the Hotel Belright. He telephoned for the patrol wagon.

Trouble Over Transcripts.

"School Director John Nixon rode down on the wagon with me and offered a $30 forfeit for my appearance at a hearing. The police took Nixon's money and then locked him in a cell, too. No charge was entered against him. I was told in the cell that Scandrett had given orders to keep me in. After the polls closed Alderman William Lang persuaded the police to accept a forfeit for me and I was released. Next morning I was fined $5 and costs for disorderly conduct. I asked for a transcript and it was refused. The next day I again asked for a transcript and got it. I wanted a transcript in Nixon's case from Magistrate Abernathey.

"'Come out here in the alley and I'll give you all the transcript you want,' is what Abernathey answered.

"On my way home I was prostrated in East park and had to be helped home. A doctor was called and I was put under his care. Several persons have called to fix the matter up, but I have refused to see them."

Mr. Reddinger thinks his eyesight has been impaired by the treatment he received. "Before this I could read all night without hurting my eyes. Now I can't see to read at all," he says.

When Director Scandrett was asked about Reddinger's statement he appeared annoyed, and was reluctant about saying anything.

"Mr. Reddinger says he was threatened by you before he was knocked down by Policeman Smith."

"Trouble-Maker," Says Director.

"Oh, that fellow is no good," declared the director. "He was drunk about the polls on election day and looking for trouble. He's no good, and I never speak to him unless I have some one with me. He is a trouble-maker."

With this Scandrett walked away from the reporter, refusing to say anything further.

"He got me sore by asking for a transcript on Sunday. We never give transcripts on Sundays. He acted in a very disorderly manner at the hearing."

"Is it true that you told him to 'come out in the alley,' intimating that you would knock him out?"

"No. Don't you think I could have knocked him out if I had wanted to? He was staggering about here and could easily have been knocked down. I am 61 years old and haven't been in a fight for 35 years. I never thought of hitting the man."

Reddinger is 45 years old and was born and reared in the Third ward, where he is well known. He has always taken an active part in local politics, but never sought election to any office.

PASSENGER STEAMER WRECKED ON ROCKS

EUREKA, CAL., Oct. 6.—The passenger steamer St. Paul, plying between San Francisco and Portland, struck the rocks near here at an early hour this morning during a dense fog. The steamer carried 98 passengers and a crew of 65 men, all of whom were removed in safety and brought to this port. The steamer and cargo is a total wreck. The women passengers suffered much from exposure, and a number of them fainted when they realized their peril. Many of the passengers will continue their journey to Portland.

Britons to Treat With Russians.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Columns of the local newspapers are being devoted to the discussion of an understanding between Russia and England. That negotiations with this object in view are pending seems possible, though definite confirmation is lacking.

REPUBLICAN CLUBS ARE JOINED FOR PARTY GOOD

Twenty-Four Organizations Meet at Tariff Club and Form Allied Clubs of Allegheny County.

An organization to be called the Allied Republican clubs of Allegheny county was formed last night at an enthusiastic meeting at the Tariff club. Twenty-four clubs were represented by three delegates each. The organization will be in working order for the present campaign, and will soon hold a rousing Republican mass meeting.

W. R. Brown, president of the Tariff club, presided over the meeting and Herbert L. Cratty was secretary. Mr. Brown was elected president and Mr. Cratty secretary of the new organization, after a resolution that such a body be formed had been adopted with enthusiasm.

A committee was appointed to draft bylaws to be submitted at the next meeting of the allied clubs on October 20. The committee is composed of Samuel J. Wainwright, Jr., president of the Americus club; W. T. Tredway, Coraopolis club; Arch Mackrell, Tariff club; H. A. Taylor, Wilkinsburg Second Ward club, and John A. Murphy, Colonial club.

The organization agreed to support the Republican ticket, state and county, and the secretary was instructed to put the clubs at the service of Thomas J. Ford, the chairman of the Republican county committee.

A committee was appointed to make arrangements to hold a big Republican mass meeting, probably in Braddock. Frederick W. Edwards, H. A. Taylor, H. S. Lydick of the Knox club, Allegheny; F. Duffy of the C. L. Magee Republican club and William Arbogast of the War Veterans Republican association are the committee.

TO PLACE CORNER STONES.

Hamilton Avenue United Presbyterian and Evangelical Churches Ready to Build.

Plans have been completed for the laying of the corner stones of two handsome new churches being built for Pittsburgh congregations. The corner stone of the new Hamilton Avenue United Presbyterian church will be laid at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The edifice is being erected at Homewood avenue and Idlewild street, Homewood, and many members of the congregation and a number of neighboring pastors will assist in the ceremonies.

The other ceremony will be held tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the congregation of the Zion Church of the Evangelical Association. The congregation recently sold its church building in Sixth avenue, near Wylie avenue, in which it has worshiped for over 50 years. The new church edifice, which will be one of the handsomest in Pittsburgh, is being built at Center avenue and Graham street, Shadyside, and will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Additional Society

Will Have Quiet Home Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Helen Sands and Dr. Herbert Ferry of Drane, Tex., will be a quiet event of Thursday, October 19. The Rev. J. D. Sands, father of the bride, will perform the ceremony at his home in Roup street, East End, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and the bride will have but one attendant, her sister, Miss Martha Sands. The bridal couple will live in Drane, where days after January 1 have been announced as at homes. Miss Anne Houston of Pacific avenue gave a prettily appointed little luncheon for Miss Sands yesterday afternoon, her guests including Miss Rosetta Moore, who entertained with a tea on Thursday; Miss Helen Sherrard, Miss Jane Miller, Miss Margaret McClelland, Miss Elsie Braun, Miss Olive McCutcheon and Miss Sands.

Mellon-Kampmann Invitations Out.

Invitations were issued yesterday for the wedding of Miss Mary Caldwell Mellon and Herman Kampmann, the latter of San Antonio, Tex., on Wednesday, October 25. There will be no attendants. The Rev. Dr. Frank N. Sneed, pastor of the East Liberty Presbyterian church, will solemnize the marriage at 8 o'clock at the residence of Judge and Mrs. Thomas Mellon, grandparents of the bride, in North Negley avenue, an uncle, Richard Beatty Mellon, giving the bride away. An hour later a large reception will be held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Mellon, which estate adjoins that of Judge Mellon. Mr. Kampmann will take his bride to San Antonio, where they will make their home.

Donation Day for Childrens' Hospital.

The first donation day observed at the Pittsburgh Hospital for Children will be held Monday, October 16. The reception hours will be from 3 o'clock until 6, when the members of the board of managers will form the receiving party and visitors will be shown over the hospital and through the new wing and sunparlor. A committee composed of Mrs. David Kirk, chairman; Mrs. J. Ramsey Speer, Mrs. George Shaw, Miss Louise Kay, Miss Gertrude Childs and Miss Narcisse Kennedy will have charge of the arrangements for the afternoon. The committee was appointed at the meeting of the board of managers yesterday morning in the hospital. Mrs. George W. Guthrie, the president, returned on Thursday evening from New England, where she has been all summer, and presided at the meeting yesterday.

The Southern club will take up the study of "advanced thought" this year, its programs teeming with various features of psychic or mental phenomena. The opening meeting of the year, the president's day, was held yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. William Austin Kulp. It was purely social save for the address delivered by the president, Mrs. John M. L'Amour. An interesting musical program was presented by Mrs. James Blair Walker, Mrs. W. C. Weckerle and Mrs. Belle Dietz.

COUNCILMEN WANT ROENIGK'S FUNDS

Propose to Use Artesian Well Money for Water Extension and Engine Houses.

COMMITTEE FAILS TO MEET

"The $10,000 appropriated for artesian wells ought to be transferred to build the Eighteenth ward engine house instead of using the bond money voted specifically by the people for a fireboat," said Dr. E. R. Walters, chairman of the special committee of councils on artesian wells, which was called to meet yesterday, but which failed to get a quorum.

Dr. Walters was the only member present and he directed that another meeting be called for next Tuesday. "I am in favor of sending the artesian well ordinance back to councils with a negative recommendation and have the money used for some other purpose. As I have said before, I am not in favor of artesian wells and believe that any money spent in that direction is money wasted."

The artesian well committee is composed of three members, all doctors, and every one is opposed to the artesian well scheme. It has had the ordinance for artesian wells for six months without taking any action on it. Councilman A. G. Roenigk, the father of the artesian well scheme, has renewed his efforts in the past few weeks with Director Bigelow and Mayor Hays to force the ordinance out of the committee. The mayor and director promised to take the ordinance out if Dr. Walters' committee did not take action immediately.

As the committee failed to do anything yesterday and adjourned until the day after councils meet next week it is "up to" Director Bigelow and Mayor Hays to take the ordinance out of the committee at the next meeting if they wish to prove the sincerity of the promises to Mr. Roenigk. There is a strong suspicion, however, that Director Bigelow is not working very hard to get the ordinance out, but wants the $10,000 for some other purpose, and that the plan of the administration is to continue to hand out promises to Mr. Roenigk to hold him in line until after the election next month, there being only one council meeting after next Monday until election.

After the election on November 7 it will be useless for Mr. Roenigk to protest further because then the administration has the power of deciding whether he shall again be a candidate on the Citizens' ticket for re-election to councils from the Twentieth ward.

"The $10,000 which Mr. Roenigk wants to spend on artesian wells should be spent to make water pipe extensions in our ward," said Councilman C. C. Kohne yesterday. "We need about $15,000 to extend the water service in the Twenty-third ward, and that would be a good place to use the artesian well fund. There are many other wards that are short of water and which are also demanding relief."

Mr. Roenigk was present at the time set for the committee meeting yesterday. When a quorum failed to appear he asked Dr. Walters to call a meeting for today so that the matter could be taken up in councils on Monday, but Dr. Walters was not impressed with the idea.

Too Much Worry.

Worry kills more people than disease. It turns our hair gray; draws wrinkles on our face, places lines of care on our brow. We worry because we have too much to do. We worry because we have nothing to do. We worry about our friends. Make our friends wonder at our impatient and irritable nature, and if we don't take the trouble to learn the great secret we will worry ourselves into the grave. Worry is caused by a diseased stomach. Lactonene Dyspepsia Tablets cure it. Get them today. A contented mind is surely yours—the greatest blessing man or woman can have. "Ask the Druggist."

MANY AMERICAN WINES FALL SHORT OF EUROPEAN PRODUCT

Dr. Wiley, Chemist of the Agricultural Department, Returns from Abroad With Some New Ideas About Spirituous Liquors.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Dr. H. W. Wiley, chemist of the department of agriculture, is back from a summer spent abroad in the observation of the methods of manufacture of whiskies and wines for export to the United States. He is preparing a report to supplement his statements last year that little of the Scotch whisky imported to the United States is the real article and that many of the wines fall far short of the standard of Europe.

On his trip Dr. Wiley found that while the British government has thrown careful restrictions around the manufacture of spirits for English consumers, there is no prohibition of even the grossest manipulation of liquors for the foreign market. Dr. Wiley believes that all drink stuffs should be accompanied by a certificate of an American consul that they were bottled under restrictions governing preparations for the British market. There is nothing in British law controlling the labelling of bottled goods designed for export.

Dr. Wiley finds that the distillers of Scotch whiskies rarely ship their product direct to the United States. Nearly the entire product is taken by the so-called blenders.

CHANGES IN ROUTES.

Congestion in Smithfield Street to Be Relieved by Use of New Grant Street.

An important change in the routing of three lines of the Pittsburgh Railways Company will go into effect next week. Commencing Monday cars on the Carson street line via Smithfield street, will run on Smithfield street to Seventh avenue, along Seventh avenue to New Grant street, to Liberty avenue, and thence along Smithfield street to the South Side. Cars on the "Liberty and Lincoln" line will run from Liberty avenue via Wood street to Water street, to Grant street, to Seventh avenue, to New Grant street, to Liberty avenue, following the same route as at present from there to the East End.

Cars on the "Liberty and Highland Park" line will run from Liberty avenue via New Grant street to Seventh avenue, to Grant street, to Water street, to Wood street to Liberty avenue. These changes will relieve the congestion in Smithfield street from Sixth avenue to Liberty avenue, and demonstrate the usefulness of the new tracks in Grant street. With the exception of the downtown changes the lines mentioned will use the same routes as at present.

COMPANY ORDERS TROLLEY FENDERS

Pittsburgh Railways Lets Contracts for 1,700 Reynolds Life Guards.

TO FURNISH THEM IN 60 DAYS

Contracts for 1,700 street car fenders have been let by the Pittsburgh Railways Company to comply with the city ordinance requiring cars to be equipped with life-saving guards. General Superintendent John Murphy of the railways company, says the fenders are being turned out at the rate of about 10 a day, and that the first installment has been received.

"None have yet been put on the cars," said he, "but they will be put on as fast as we can get them. We have received a few and will get them as fast as they are made. I cannot say when every car will be equipped with a fender."

A contract for 1,000 fenders was let to Taylor & Dean of Pittsburgh, and a contract for 500 to the Albree Iron works of Allegheny. No specified time is named in the contract, so Mr. Murphy said, for the fenders to be furnished, and it is problematical when all the street cars running in and out of the city will be equipped. According to Supt. Murphy's statement, that the fenders are being manufactured at the rate of about 10 a day, the order of 1,700 fenders would be filled in about two months.

The fender is what is known as the Reynolds fender. It is the invention of an employe of the traction company, and has never been in use before. The fender is constructed of gas pipe frame with a narrow extension of about 18 or 20 inches in front for the reception of the victim's body. The weight of the body is supposed to work a ratchet and cause the extension to drop close to the track, preventing the body from going under the wheels.

WALLACE CHANGES MIND AND FAILS TO APPEAR

Promise to Meet District Attorney With Witnesses in Loughren Case Is Lightly Broken.

Superintendent of Police Wallace, despite the fact that he had made arrangements with District Attorney Stewart to appear with his witnesses at the district attorney's office yesterday to have the cases for larceny against George Loughran and Matt Cavanaugh, which were twice ignored by the grand jury, reconsidered, failed to show up. Instead he sent a letter stating that by advice of his attorney he had decided to take another course with the cases and would not appear at the time set for the hearing.

District Attorney Stewart had several witnesses present who were alleged to have had something to do with the ignoring of the bills. When Supt. Wallace declined to appear a statement was taken from each for future reference and they were allowed to depart. Assistant City Attorney L. S. Levin, who, it was expected, would appear with Supt. Wallace, was in court but declined to go near the district attorney's office, saying he was "not mixing in Wallace's affairs."

Probably a Big Stocking.

The cash-carrying capacity of a woman's stocking was a question puzzling the court in the bankruptcy case of the creditors of Joseph Nathan, a clothing dealer of Sharon. The matter came up in the argument of Attorney Sacks that Nathan knew he was insolvent and disposed of his stock of goods to Mrs. Dora Hirsovitz. Sacks told the court that the woman had explained to him she carried this money, which had been left her by her husband, in a stocking, $1,000 in bills and $47 in coin. This, Sacks said, he questioned, but the court refused to offer an opinion. The receiver for Nathan was trying to show collusion on his part to injure his creditors.

Report for the Year Shows Deficit Removed and a Surplus Created.

DIVIDENDS ARE NOW IN SIGHT

The Crucible Steel Company of America yesterday ceased to be the butt of caustic criticism and the favorite object of contempt for those who regularly "knock" the Pittsburgh industrials. The company, following the policy adopted a year ago, made public yesterday, nearly two weeks in advance of its annual meeting, the report for the year ended August 31, and this report is a remarkable tribute to the efficiency of good management and the possibilities of a season of prosperity.

The report is printed in full below. It shows that the net earnings were $2,132,490 64. It shows that the deficit of the preceding year, $2,155,622 41, was reduced by adjustments in the sum of $156,622 41 to $1,999,009 94, and that the company had a surplus at the end of the year of $133,480 70.

When the fiscal year closed in 1904 the company's debts were $6,203,767 06. At the close of the fiscal year in 1905 this had been reduced by $2,553,577 19 to $3,650,189 87. The company anticipated payment of notes amounting to $808,000.

The company is notable in that it has no mortgage bonds outstanding and the announcement is made in the report that there will be no necessity for issuing any part of the $7,000,000 authorized.

Finally the report states flatly that the outlook is encouraging and that there is no reason in sight why the payment of dividends should not be resumed in the near future.

Excellence of Report Forecasted.

That the report for the year would be an excellent one has been forecasted by the movements of the stock market for several months past. It has been generally known that the company has been doing an excellent business, especially in the last half of the fiscal year, and the forecasts of its report were hardly more favorable than the report itself.

One paragraph in the report is of especial significance as illustrating the world-wide trade of a Pittsburgh company. The company is now completing plans for establishing branches in the far east, including Japan, China and Korea.

The report shows also that the stock of the company has been reduced by $985,100 par value.

The following certificate is made by a well-known firm of public accountants: "We have audited the above balance sheet and certify that in our opinion it is properly drawn up so as to show the true financial position of the Crucible Steel Company of America and its subsidiary companies on August 31, 1905."

The annual meeting of the company is to be held at Jersey City, October 13. The directors whose terms expire this year are: Reuben Miller, A. W. Mellon, Frank B. Smith, C. C. Ramsey and William H. Singer. The officers now are: William G. Park, chairman executive committee; Frank B. Smith, president and general manager; Reuben Miller, Herbert Du Puy, John A. Sutton and C. C. Ramsey, vice presidents; Alexander Thomas, secretary; Julius Bieler, treasurer; Reed, Smith, Shaw & Beal, general counsel.

The report in full follows:

All Accounts Consolidated.

To the Stockholders:

We submit herewith a report of the operations and earnings of the Crucible Steel Company of America and its subsidiary companies for the fiscal year ended August 31, 1905, together with certified statement of the financial condition at the close of that year.

The net earnings of the company for the year, after charging off all items of a doubtful nature, were $2,132,490 64.

The accounts of the subsidiary companies have been consolidated during the year with those of the Crucible Steel Company of America, and the present balance sheet, therefore, shows in concise form a complete statement of the assets and liabilities of the company.

At the close of the fiscal year, August 31, 1901, the total debt of the company was $6,203,767 06; at the close of the fiscal year, August 31, 1905, it was $3,650,189 87, showing a reduction of $2,553,577 19, including $53,000 00 of bonded indebtedness.

During the year the company has met all its current obligations, and in addition has anticipated payment of notes covered by the collateral trust bonds to the amount of $808,000 00.

This improvement in the company's financial condition renders it unnecessary to issue any part of the $7,000,000 bonds authorized at the last annual meeting.

Small Mortgage Soon to Go.

The change in the capital stock account, shown in the balance sheet, is due to our having deducted 5,535 shares of preferred and 4,216 shares of common stock, issued to the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh at the time of the organization of the company and held by it as trustee, to be used for the acquisition of certain outstanding interests which were never acquired.

There are now no liens of any kind against the plants or properties of the company other than the collateral trust bonds and the mortgages ($171,232 56) shown in the balance sheet. The amount of these mortgages represents the purchase price of several pieces of land at Clairton, now under agreement of sale to the Clairton Steel Company. We are advised that this sale will be consummated very soon.

The mortgage of $189,000 00, held by the company on the Portsmouth Steel Company plant at the close of the last fiscal year has been satisfied, the company having accepted in lieu thereof $102,400 00 in cash and $80,000 00 par value, in first mortgage bonds of that company, secured by the stock of the Whittaker-Glessner Company under an agreement which should fully protect the company's interests in that property.

The mortgage held by the company on the Cumberland plant, $25,000 00, has been paid off during the year and the proceeds passed into the treasury.

A large portion of the United States Steel Corporation 10-60 year gold bonds, held at the close of the last fiscal year, has been sold and the proceeds used in the company's current business. The remaining 50 bonds now in the company's treasury are included in the assets at present market value.

Plants in Better Condition Than Ever.

The Park Steel Company stock still outstanding is, at par, $217,100 00. The amount purchased by the company at a total cost of $388,314 20, including interest and commission, has been charged into property account at the actual cost to the company.

Since the last annual statement the company has purchased the outstanding stock (about 25 per cent) of the Canton Steel Company and now owns all that company's property and assets. The actual cost of the plant has been charged into property account, and the working assets have been distributed and included in the accounts of the Crucible Steel Company of America.

All expenditures made by the company during the year for maintenance, renewals and replacements having been charged to current operating expenses, and only actual additions and extensions charged to betterments, and as the physical condition of the company's plants is better than ever before, it was not necessary to charge off anything for depreciation.

The foreign business continues to grow and to show substantial returns, which encourages the company to further extend it. Plans are now under way looking to the establishment of branches in the far east, including Japan, Korea and China.

The outlook for business for the coming year is most encouraging. The amount of contracts and orders on the books of the company is larger than usual at this time of year. If our expectations as to earnings are realized we see no reason why the company should not begin to pay dividends on the preferred stock in the near future, though for a time it may be advisable to make them less than the full rate.

The accounts of the Crucible Steel Company of America and the subsidiary companies have been carefully audited by Jones, Caesar, Dickinson, Wilmot & Co., certified public accountants, whose certificate as to the correctness thereof will be found annexed.

By order of the board of directors,
WM. G. PARK,
Chairman of the Executive Committee.
FRANK B. SMITH,
President.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORING TOWNS AND COUNTRY

EXCEPTIONS CONTINUE IN THE M'KINLEY CASE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SOMERSET, PA., Oct. 6.—There seems to be no end to the exceptions that are being filed to the account of Mrs. Annie McKinley, executrix of the estate of the late Abner McKinley, brother of President William McKinley. The most sensational yet received in the orphans' court were filed by Frank E. Granger of Somerset this afternoon, who alleges the diamond rings of the late Abner McKinley were not appraised. The exceptions, save the following, are the same as those previously filed. "The accountant has failed to have appraised a large amount of personal property of Abner McKinley, consisting of watches, household furnishings, horses, diamond ring, etc., valued at several thousand dollars.

"The executrix should be surcharged on the $505.50 item of Undertaker Charles H. Coffroth of Somerset for casket and case, which is at least $200 excessive. The $325 item of Meyers & Arnold, funeral directors of Scottdale, O., should not be allowed as a credit, the accountant's charge of $50 on the personal property and $500 for services arising out of the real estate fund should not be allowed as credits for the reason that she did not administer the trust according to law, that she has failed to report a full list of all undisposed stocks, bonds, interest and other assets.

"The accountant should not be allowed credit for the following judgments: Harvey M. Berkley, cashier of the First National bank of Somerset, $5,716.65; Farmers' National bank, Somerset, $5,801; Paul A. Schell, Somerset, $2,706.23, until all proper credits are first deducted and all collatera is surrendered.

"That the executrix should be charged with the foregoing and be required to account for them as assets."

NURSE GIVES HER LIFE.

Declines to Leave Island Hospital When Asked to Do So by Her Friends.

WILKES-BARRE, PA., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Enclosed in a beautifully polished cocoa shell there arrived yesterday from the Hawaiian island the ashes of Miss Emma C. Potts of this city, the nurse who gave her life for her profession while in charge of a hospital at Eleele, Kauai island, one of the smaller of the Hawaiian group. She died there last year, refusing to give up her work despite the fact that her friends wanted her to return.

Her sister, Miss Anna Potts, undeterred by her death, took up the work when she died and is still in charge of the hospital at Eleele. It was she who had the remains disinterred, cremated, and sent on here to be buried in Oaklawn cemetery today.

MINISTERS ARE CLEARED OF ALL ALLEGED CRIMES

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., Oct. 6.—There was relief in some quarters of the Methodist conference this morning when the committee appointed to investigate charges of unbecoming conduct on the part of some of the ministers reported adversely to the complainants and gave the ministers involved a clean bill of health. It is understood that petty complaints were made against a score of the members of the conference.

Immediately after a song service this morning the committee to examine candidates for the ministry reported and approved all the candidates, six in number, and they were formally received into the conference. They are C. E. Hamrick, J. E. Weigle, J. E. Dean, Wert W. Stephens, L. at. Bernard and James Haddox. Bishop Goodsell, in receiving the class into the conference, made an impressive address.

This afternoon the anniversary of the Women's Foreign Missionary society was held and the principal address was delivered by Miss Leonore Seeds of Japan, who has been engaged in missionary work for a number of years. This service was followed with a lecture by Prof. J. M. Callahan of the West Virginia university on early struggles of the church. This evening was devoted to a rally by the Methodist veterans, at which addresses were made by the Rev. M. F. Compton, the Rev. C. H. Lakin and George C. Sturgiss. Bishop Goodsell announced today that the appointments for next year would not be announced until Monday evening.

HARRISBURG, PA., Oct. 6.—(Special.) Harrisburg's old home week celebration closed tonight with a big allegorical and fantastic parade. There were 500 mummers in line with all sorts of costumes and several hundred members of the order of Red Men in Indian costume. The allegorical division depicted the civic and military life and events of Pennsylvania from the time of John Harris, the founder of Harrisburg, to the present time.

There was also union religious services in all the Methodist churches. The city is crowded with college students who are here for tomorrow's football game between State college and the Carlisle Indians. ELDERS OF THE CHURCH OF GOD ELECT OFFICERS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SCOTTDALE, PA., Oct. 6.—At the session of the eldership of the Church of God at Alverton this morning the following officers were elected: President, the Rev. J. L. Updegraph of Pittsburgh; journal clerk, the Rev. W. W. Anderson of Butler; transcribing clerk, the Rev. G. W. Guyer of Barkeyville; treasurer, G. W. Stoner of Mt. Pleasant; stationing committee, the Rev. S. G. Yahn, the Rev. R. L. Burns, the Rev. T. S. Woods, the Rev. W. B. Elliott and the Rev. J. L. Updegraph. The standing committee for the year is the Revs. S. G. Yahn, R. L. Burns and T. S. Woods.

During the morning a closed session was held to consider the case of the Rev. Mr. Hulmes on the charge of assaulting a young lady member of his congregation. After some argument the matter was turned over to a special committee. The committee would give out no information until after their report to the session.

This afternoon's session was devoted to committee reports, the most interesting of which was that of the missionary committee which showed that this part of the church's work was developing rapidly and the gain in membership during the past year was decidedly encouraging. The financial secretary's report showed the church's finances to be in good condition. Tonight's session was in the nature of a church service, the Rev. J. W. Whistler preaching the sermon. Tomorrow morning the ordination service will be held, there being two candidates to be ordained. The report of the stationing committee will likely be read tomorrow evening.

SOPHOMORES CAPTURE POLE.

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—The freshman class at Washington and Jefferson college was outwitted by the sophomores late last night when the latter captured the iron pole which the freshmen had intended to erect on the college grounds tonight. Each year the freshies erect the pole with their colors at the top and defy the sophs to capture it.

A few days ago they purchased a 50-foot pole of iron tubing and ordered it delivered at a secluded spot on the outskirts of the town. The teamster forgot the directions and asked a sophomore whom he met where the location was. The student had the pole delivered into the keeping of his class. The freshmen tried to retake it early this morning, but were repulsed after a hard fight.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 6.—Mrs. Rebecca R. Chambers of West Grove, president of the state W. C. T. U. organization, opened the regular sessions of the Thirty-first annual convention in the First Presbyterian church here this morning. Delegates from 41 counties were present and the number has been already augmented during the day. The welcoming service, the banner session of the day, was not held until tonight. President J. D. Moffat, of W. & J. college, welcomed the convention delegates for the educational associations; the Rev. C. E. Little of the Third United Presbyterian church for the clergy, and Miss Mary Bingham for the Washington county W. C. T. U. President Moffat's address was an able one.

The response for the convention was made by Mrs. Olive Pond Aimes of Philadelphia, state recording secretary. Miss Lillian M. Phillips, a leading temperance worker of Canada, made an address tonight. The principal address was made by the president, Mrs. Chambers, who covered thoroughly the work of every department in Pennsylvania and suggested many reforms. She said the W. C. T. U. would support woman's suffrage and local option. She also recommended a national anti-Mormon law and the holding of the universal temperance prayer day by Christians on the Sunday preceding an election.

Miss Kate MacKnight, president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, made an address this afternoon on "The Hope of Our Nation." The reports of all departments were encouraging. The total state membership was shown to be 16,226, of which 6% are from Allegheny county. The hearing of reports will be continued tomorrow, while the evening will be given over to the "Y" branch of the organization.

BUTLER, PA., Oct. 6.—The motion on behalf of Beaver county for a new trial in the case of the Ohio River Bridge Company versus Beaver county was again up for hearing today before Judge James M. Galbreath. The bridge company sued for $50,000 and received a verdict for $32,000. John D. Anderson of Monaca, son-in-law of A. J. Jolly, one of the principal stockholders in the bridge company, denied absolutely the assertion of Juror Joseph W. Walley that Anderson had offered him $50 if he would help secure a big verdict for the bridge company.

He, however, admitted he had treated Walley to ice cream during the trial. Anderson was a witness for the bridge company. His brother-in-law, A. M. Jolly, secretary and treasurer of the bridge company, stated Anderson did not have any of the company's funds to use for any purpose and did not represent the company in any capacity. A. E. Bachtler, a witness for the bridge company, swore he heard Juror Walley say in the street that the bridge company wanted $30,000, and it was too much, and he would see they did not get it.

The likelihood of criminal prosecutions has been shown by the presence of District Attorney Walker at all the hearings. Trust jurors were entertained by witnesses for the bridge company, and that there was talk among the jurors during the trial of the possibilities of unlawful influence, has been shown by the evidence of both sides. The arguments were concluded today.

GAMES TODAY.

Chicago at Pittsburgh.
St. Louis at Cincinnati (2).
Philadelphia at New York.
Boston at Brooklyn.

The Chicagos walked away with the game at Exposition park yesterday, mainly because of the weakness of the Pirate battery. Mike Lynch was unable to locate the plate, and Homer Hillebrand couldn't stop the ball when it did pass over the big rubber. Of course, as usual, the poor work of the battery put all the fielders in the air, in fact, rattled them, and hits went safe which under other conditions would have been easy outs. The erratic battery was sent to the barn by Captain Clarke after the fourth inning, and Phillippe and Peitz were substituted. At once there was a change. The fielders played with more confidence and put more snap and ginger into the game. But the lead taken by the Chicagos in the fifth inning, when they scored five runs, was too much to overcome.

That inning was a torture to all the spectators, whose only solace was the fact that the Pirates cannot possibly lose second place to Chicago, or any other team.

When the disastrous fifth opened the score was 1 to 0 in favor of the Pirates. Chance was the first batter up, and also the last, which means that the Windy City boys faced Mike Lynch 10 times. Chance got his base on balls. McCarthy dropped the ball behind the pitcher. Wagner tried to get it, but failed. It went for a hit. Tinker dumped the ball to Brain, who flung the ball to first too late to catch the runner. The throw was bad and Chance scored on the error. Maloney hit to Ritchey, the ball jumping out of the way. McCarthy and Tinker scoring. Evers sacrificed Maloney to second. Kling hit for a single and then stole second. Hillebrand made a poor throw to Wagner and Maloney scored. Weimer struck out. Slagle hit to right for a single, the only clean hit. It scored Kling. Slagle went to second on a wild pitch and to third on a passed ball. Casey got his base on balls and immediately stole second. Chance went to bat for the second time and was an easy out.

GAMES TODAY.

Chicago at St. Louis.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—It devolved on St. Louis, the tailenders in the league pennant race, to finally head off the rush of the Chicago American league team and drive the final spike in the latter's aspirations for the 1905 pennant, when the coveted piece of bunting was almost in its grasp, and to give Philadelphia a clear title to the American league championship. Almost as remarkable as the burst of speed displayed by Chicago on its last eastern trip was the reversal of form of the locals, when they drove Dr. White, Manager Jones' premier pitcher, from the box in the third inning, and snowed the visiting team under an avalanche of hits and runs, practically clinching the game, which they finally won by a score of 6 to 2. With two runs already counted in the fateful third, Manager Jones started to substitute Walsh for White. There was a hurried consultation, and Jones gave White another opportunity. The next two St. Louis men to face the Chicago pitcher hit safely, Tom Jones for a double and Koehler for a home run. Walsh was then sent in and held the locals safely the remainder of the game, but the damage had been done. Attendance 1,318. Score:

RIVAL CAPTAINS CONFERRING

SUTTER, W. & J. LOCKE, Westminster.

ALLEGHENY PREPS WIN FROM HIGH SCHOOL

The Allegheny Preparatory school eleven won from Allegheny High school yesterday on the W. U. P. grounds, 18 to 0, in 25-minute halves. The score does not fully show the splendid team work of the "Preps." Twice at the end of the halves they were deprived of sure touchdowns by the timekeepers' whistle. Once the ball was on the one-yard line, again on the five-yard line. The first touchdown was the result of fierce line bucking by Fife and Ed Murphy and a long end run by Capt. Tustin, who carried the ball 40 yards for a touchdown. The second touchdown was made by Tustin on a tackle formation, headed by Ed Murphy. During the first half High school made first down only once. The preps were held for downs only once. The score at the end of the first half was Prep 11, High 0.

In the second half High made first down seven times, Buka playing great ball. But on the 25-yard line preps held. Right up the field the boys from preparatory carried the ball. Worcester did some excellent hurdling, always making good gains. Fife made many five and ten-yard gains by plunging, finally carrying the ball over for a touchdown. The last of the game the preps had the ball all the time. For the preparatory school Capt. Tustin was the bright star. He ran well, followed his interference, and held his feet. Worcester was a great running mate to Tustin. Worcester's hurdling was very spectacular. Fife called forth cheer after cheer for his fierce line bucking. Hagen at quarter ran the team with great judgment. The most effective play used by prep was a tackle over formation headed by Ed Murphy, who was a tower of strength.

The preps are coached this year by Mr. Merritt, Harvard '04, who coached the strong Williston seminary team last fall. Following is the line-up:

A. P. S.		A. H. S.
Hendricks	R. E.	Ely (Buka)

Preliminary to the Pittsburgh Lyceum game this afternoon on the Pittsburgh college campus the strong W. and J. academy eleven will stack up against the Pittsburgh college sophomores. Frandral, a new man, will be given a try out at halfback by the sophs.

The Homewood Meds beat the East Liberty academy eleven yesterday in two five-minute halves 6 to 0.

After besmearing the roof and flagpole of the Oakmont High school with tar, the juniors decoyed the members of the senior class by hoisting the junior flag upon the pole. The seniors fell into the trap and climbed to the roof of the building. After they had spent some time in climbing around the roof in an attempt to remove the flag and covered their clothing with the tar, they descended to the lawn only to be driven away by the juniors, after a hard battle.

THE ALLEGHENY COUNTY BOWLING LEAGUE ORGANIZED

ALL SECTIONS ARE IN LINE

LATEST FROM THE ALLEYS

The executive committee of the Allegheny County league, in conjunction with the Pittsburgh section, held a meeting at this office last night at which the Pittsburgh section was thoroughly organized with 10 clubs. The Bloomfield and Tondee clubs were admitted, rounding out the circuit, which now consists of the Brunswick, Unity, Friendship, Unger, Carrick, Hazelwood, Great Eastern, Glenwood, Bloomfield and Tondee teams. This completes the Allegheny County league, with every team in all three sections in line. The executive committee expected to act on the schedule of each section, but not a section was ready. The schedules must be presented on Tuesday or the executive committee will arrange the dates.

The following were appointed as committees to inspect the alleys in the different sections: Pittsburgh, Messrs. Smith and Wuerthele; Monongahela, Messrs. Benn and Votel; Allegheny, Messrs. Schad and Klepplich. These committees are to report to the executive committee on Tuesday. All the alleys must be regulation, which includes a ring and scale to measure and weigh each ball. The executive committee adopted a law compelling all alley owners to furnish the ring and scales, any alley not furnishing them will be ignored as not regulation. The league will be fully prepared to open the season on October 16, with all the teams in line.

The Millvale Independents of the Allegheny section of the County league will bowl the Sharpsburg team on Monday evening at Millvale.

The St. Anthony Casino of Diocesan league, would like to arrange a match for next week with the St. Joseph Casino team.

The Hazelwood alleys were closed down last week to allow a general overhauling. The alleys are now in good shape for any league bowlers. The members of the County league team are daily practicing to get into shape for their first contests and some big scores are being rolled.

Prize bowling will be held on the St. Augustine alley, on Butler street, on Monday and Tuesday. It is open to all and valuable prizes will be given.

The amateur league of the Wylie avenue alleys still wants two teams. It will hold a meeting on Thursday.

The Ivy league will hold its first meeting on the Wylie avenue alleys some day next week. It is hoped the factions will then get together.

FOWNES AND FREW ARE FINALISTS

Final Match in Golf Championship Tournament Will Be Played Today at 36 Holes.

HANDICAP HAS 110 ENTRIES

The competition to decide the amateur golf championship, being held by the Western Pennsylvania Golf association at the Oakmont Country club, was brought down to the finals in the championship eight and to the semi-finals in the second and third cups sixteens. The championship finalists are W. C. Fownes of the Oakmont Country club, the present amateur champion, and William Frew of the Pittsburgh Golf club. Mr. Frew carried J. D. Travers to the 19th hole in the semi-finals at Oak. Travers won the tournament and then defeated Travis at Nassau.

The second cup survivors are R. L. James, Warren Kay, E. E. Giles and J. B. Crookston.

The third cup survivors are B. H. Evans, Dr. W. H. Haines, W. H. Duff, Jr., and W. G. Carr.

An additional cup was offered yesterday for those who had qualified and had been put out in the match play rounds and the first round played in the afternoon.

R. P. Nevin, Jr., lost play off tie and fell in to second cup sixteen; G. A. Dillinger lost play off tie in third cup sixteen.

The big surprise of the tournament was the defeat of E. M. Byers by C. B. Fownes, 2 and 1, in the first round. Byers' play was listless and careless and without interest. He won the first hole and Fownes captured the second and third. Byers made the match all square at the eighth and they made the turn that way. Fownes won the eleventh and twelfth and Byers the thirteenth and Fownes annexed the next two. Fownes' card was 88 and Byers' 88.

The match of the first round was the one between W. C. Fownes, Jr., and George A. Ormiston, won by Fownes, 4 and 3. By a singular ill luck of the draw Ormiston has drawn Fownes tournament after tournament.

The match was really closer than the figures indicate. Fownes won the second hole, Ormiston missing his approach. Ormiston squared things by taking the third, laying his approach dead. Ormiston went into the lead at the fourth, Fownes over approaching and taking three to come back. Fownes drove the green at the fifth, Ormiston from the road, he had the luck to hole out in one. Fownes was very lucky to get a half at the fifteenth. He sliced his second to the edge of the rough and made a splendid recovery with niblick dead. This was rather hard on Ormiston, who had brassied to the edge of the green. Fownes won the fifteenth and stood 4 up and 3 to play. Their cards were:

Fownes—
Out	5	4	5	6	4	3	5	3	8—40
In	5	4	5	3	4	4
Ormiston—
Out	5	5	4	5	4	3	5	4	6—41
In	5	4	6	3	4	5

W. C. Fownes, Jr., went fast in the afternoon match with his brother, C. B. Fownes, whom he defeated, 7 and 5. His card was:

W. C. Fownes, Jr.—
Out	4	4	4	5	5	3	4	3	5—37
In	5	5	6	4

An interesting match was the semi-final round between David Baxter and William Frew, won by the latter, 3 and 2. Baxter is a good golfer, but let up in his practice a good deal for ago and W. J. Jarvis, an accident and is not up to a bruising contest. Frew has been playing strong golf throughout the tournament. He went out in 42 in the match and stood 2 up at the turn. The twelfth hole was the first one won by Mr. Baxter.

The competition was very warm in the second cup sixteen. E. E. Giles had a rare setto with Dr. M. D. Ritchie in the second round, Dr. Ritchie, after reaching the half 3 down, brought matters all square at the fifteenth hole. Giles was dormie one at the seventeenth and they halved the home hole.

In the third cup sixteen Dr. W. H. Haines and W. A. Nicholson had to go an extra hole in the second round. There were two 29-hole matches and one 18-hole match in the consolation sixteen. L. G. Liddell carried J. P. Byers and R. U. Nevin, Jr., also took J. O'H. Denny to the twentieth hole, and Dr. G. A. Dillinger made it an extra hole for S. M. Ament.

Delightful weather greeted the golfers again yesterday, making three ideal days for the whole tournament so far.

PACERS ARE A BIT ERRATIC

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LEXINGTON, KY., Oct. 6.—Favorites took the four events decided at the fourth day of the trotting meeting here today. A large crowd was present, and the racing was good. The Johnston stake, 2:21 class trotting, was the feature. Emma Brook, half sister to Miss Adbell, the Futurity winner, challenged the favorite, Albert C., and in the second heat led him to a break in the stretch, and easily finished first. FEW ARE LEFT FROM FAMOUS OLD COMMAND

Less Than One Hundred Men Answer Roll-cal in Sixty-Second Regiment.

In the summer of 1861 Col. Samuel W. Black and his Sixty-second regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, marched away from Pittsburgh to join the Army of the Potomac. Last night, in the Washington bank building, the veterans held their 28th annual reunion. It was a pathetic remnant of the patriotic command that was left. About 75 men mustered at the regimental roll call. During the war 1,690 fought under the Sixty-second's colors. Where were the majority? No man who fought with them will doubt. They recited the list of battles—Gaines Mill, where Col. Samuel W. Black and Capt. Thomas Espy were killed; the fights on the Chickahominy, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg and the terrible campaigns of the Wilderness. These gave reason why many names were lacking when the roll was called.

Capt. W. J. Patterson, president of the regimental association, presided. Comrade William M. Fairman of Punxsutawney, a prominent member of the Jefferson county bar and better known as the orator of the Punxsutawney Groundhog club, was the leading speaker. He moved the audience both to laughter and tears. He said he would not be content until the old Sixty-second went to Punxsutawney to celebrate its reunion.

"Comrades, I want you to come up there and enjoy the hospitality of Jefferson county," said Mr. Fairman. "We want you to enjoy the kind of weather we make and to eat groundhog with us. It is better than the 'table de hote' you talk about at your swell hotels; better even than fried chicken. Come to Punxsutawney and we'll treat you as well and as often as anywhere around."

The Rev. Daniel Swigart of the Salem Baptist church, Armstrong county; B. J. Coll, secretary of the association; H. H. Bengough and County Commissioner C. B. Price addressed the comrades and their friends. All the officers were re-elected.

DESCRIBES HER LONG TRIP.

Miss Carrie Carnahan of Pittsburgh Addresses the Women's Foreign Missionary Society.

WARREN, PA., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—At the convention of the Philadelphia branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society papers were read by Mrs. Louise Edwards of Philadelphia and Mrs. Powell of Wilkes-Barre, and strong pleas were made for aggressive and thorough work along missionary lines. Mrs. J. S. Williams of Philadelphia presented a paper on the literature of the society, laying special stress on matter prepared for this year on Africa.

Miss Carrie J. Carnahan of Pittsburgh, newly elected corresponding secretary, addressed the convention about her tour around the world, which occupied about two years. Her talk was upon conditions in China, Japan, India, Mexico and Italy, and special mention was made of the work of Dr. Benn in China, in whom this branch is interested. The Pittsburgh delegates left this evening in a special car for their homes.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO OBSERVE DISCOVERY DAY

Next Thursday will mark the four hundred and thirteenth year since Columbus stood on the flagship of his fleet and beheld the land of the New World. Down on Watling's island, in the South Atlantic, now stands a pile of stones to mark the spot of the first landing. The Knights of Columbus throughout this country are making the anniversary a gala day, and in Pittsburgh the local lodges are earnestly called upon by Catholic brotherhoods to bestir themselves to commemorate Discovery day. It is probable that the celebration will be duly arranged.

MOORE'S LIFE THREATENED BY AN ANGRY DEPOSITOR

"Before Ending My Existence I Will Try Mighty Hard to End Yours," He Writes to the Receiver.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—J. Hampton Moore, receiver of the City Trust, Safe Deposit and Surety Company, today called the attention of the postal authorities to a threatening letter received by him. The letter is signed "A Depositor," and is in part as follows:

"After watching your actions for months and being driven to desperation by you, I have decided to take the matter into my own hands. I swear I will blow your brains out if you do not get the money. I have in the City Trust the savings of years. I am in actual want, while you, you dishonorable wretch, are living in luxury on poor widows' and children's savings. Before I end my own existence I will try mighty hard to end yours. Don't think this is written by a crank. It is a warning. Take heed."

A statement of the assets and liabilities of the company was made public by Receiver Moore today. It showed the liabilities to be almost double the amount of the assets.

DYING CHILD IS FOUND IN A PHYSICIAN'S HOME

Ten-Year-Old Girl Is Brutally Maltreated and Poisoned—The Doctor Is Under Arrest in Chicago.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Dr. Oliver B. Hart, a young physician, residing in the suburb of Rogers Park, is in the custody of the police, pending further investigation of the death of Irene Klokow, 10 years old, which occurred yesterday in the residence of the physician. A charge of murder may be lodged against him.

The girl died in a bedroom of the Hart residence in which she and the physician had been locked for several hours. It is the opinion of the authorities, based on the facts disclosed at the inquest held today, that the girl was maltreated and then poisoned in an attempt to conceal the crime. After finding it was impossible for the child to recover, the physician swallowed morphine, but partially recovered.

The girl was taken about a year ago from the Illinois Industrial Home for Girls by Dr. Hart and his wife, who desired a girl who could serve in a measure as companion for Mrs. Hart, who is but 17 years of age, and at the same time do light work about the house. Yesterday Mrs. Hart went on a shopping expedition to the city and Irene complained of a headache and was left alone in the house with the physician.

The artists composing the jury of award for the Carnegie institute international exhibition of 1905 will convene at the Carnegie galleries next Thursday morning. Charles Cottet of Paris and Alfred East of London, the two distinguished foreign members of the jury, will arrive in New York today and will come to Pittsburgh on Tuesday to begin their work. The number of canvases submitted for examination exceeds those of last year by more than 500. The number of paintings from Europe, however, is less than that of previous years.

The members of this year's jury are Ben Foster, John W. Alexander, Robert Henri and J. Alden Weir of New York; Thomas Eakins and W. John Caldwell, chairman of the fine arts committee, according to the established rule, will act as president of the jury.

The London shipment, numbering 32 works, passed by the advisory committee, has just arrived. Paris sends 97 works, and the pictures from Scotland, Germany, Italy and other foreign countries are on the way. The jury will designate the relative positions to be occupied by the works accepted, and to award medals and prizes of $1,500, $1,000 and $500 respectively. President-General to Visit Here.

Mrs. Donald McLean of New York, the president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will come to Pittsburgh to be the guest of the Pittsburgh chapter next spring. Her visit will be made on the occasion of the annual garden party and flag day celebration in June, 1906. This announcement was made at the meeting of the Pittsburgh chapter yesterday afternoon, in the Twentieth Century club. The meeting, which was the first this season, was followed by a tea, the Daughters adjourning from the assembly room to the library and dining room across the hall. The decorations were unusually pretty, consisting of silken flags with flowers.

The popularity of the blockhouse since the excavations have been made at the Point district was reported by the regent, Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, who gave the number of visitors registering during the past three months. There were 1,500 in July, 2,000 in August, and during September, with the exposition close by, the number of people who registered reached 3,000, an average of 100 a day. The chapter voted to name the cottage erected for the use of the custodian at the blockhouse the Blockhouse Lodge. One of the relics which will be placed on exhibition there is a large cannon ball shown at the meeting yesterday. This cannon ball, with another smaller one, which will be included in the Daughters' exhibit in the Carnegie Museum, were found by one of the workmen when excavations were made about the blockhouse.

Announcement was made yesterday of the program for the annual conference of the Pennsylvania Daughters, which will be held in Reading this month. Among the Pittsburgh women who will attend are Mrs. Ammon and Mrs. James R. Mellon.

John Dalzell Will Open Fair.

The Hon. John Dalzell will come from Washington, D. C., to open the Homeopathic hospital fair in the Country club with an address. This adds distinction to the already notable list of attractions which the managers are planning for the fair which will be held on Thursday and Friday, October 19 and 20.

Mrs. James H. Hammond and her aids will have charge of the Turkish room where the men may smoke and where Turkish coffee will be served. Cigars, pipes, pillows, Oriental rugs, kimonos and other rare and beautiful articles will be for sale there. The Egyptian room will be in the care of Miss Malony, and will represent a chamber in an old Egyptian palace. There palmistry will be practiced.

An interesting and very popular feature of the fair will be the college booths under the direction of Mrs. Verner S. Gaggin and Miss Mary Slack. The large colleges and the preparatory schools of Pittsburgh will be represented. Mrs. William Metcalf, Jr. and Mrs. William Doolittle, with their aids, will make Cornell most attractive in her red and white regalia. Miss Emma Price and Mrs. Charles G. Carter, with aids, will have charge of the Yale booth. Mrs. Milton Williams and Mrs. Warren Seymore, with aids, will preside over Princeton.

The Pennsylvania College for Women will have a beautiful booth in purple and white, laden with pennants and emblems made by the senior and junior classes. Mrs. William Ralston Crabbe, assisted by the faculty and friends of Shadyside academy, will have articles in blue and gold for the hundreds of men and boys of Pittsburgh who first went to the academy. The students of Miss Glina' school will offer for sale artistic pictures and stationery, decorated with their school colors. The pupils of Miss Stuarts' school, dressed in French costume, will sell dainty articles of French design. The Westminster-Neville school, with Miss Shaw in charge, is planning a most attractive display of handkerchiefs and fancy collars. It is expected that all these booths, arrayed along one side of the reception room at the Country club, and decorated by an expert designer, will make an impressive picture in color effect. A special meeting of all those interested in the fair will be held on Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the Homeopathic hospital.

One of the most representative showings of touring cars ever seen in Pittsburgh will be a feature at the big bazaar. The street cars are left at the Forbes street entrance to Homewood cemetery and to make the journey around the long double curve described by the Beechwood boulevard between the two points quick and pleasant the transportation committee decided to put these automobiles into service. They have already secured most of them and when the others in view are added the collection will include the biggest and best in the two cities. The members of the committee are D. Watson Marshall, chairman; Dr. W. W. Blair, Dr. E. R. Gregg, Dr. W. A. Stewart, Dr. R. S. Marshall, Dr. Fred Woldridge, Dr. H. A. Roscoe, Dr. C. W. Sample, and Dr. K. S. Simpson.

Southern Women Hold Reunion.

A reunion of the members of the Woman's Southern society was held yesterday afternoon in the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music. It was the first meeting of the year, but unlike the other women's clubs, the Woman's Southern society observes its president's day in June. The president, Mrs. Hugh Pendleton Allen, was unable to attend the meeting yesterday because of illness, and the first vice president, Mrs. Ellison L. Costin, presided. The society is considering admission into the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women during the coming year as evidenced by a paper read yesterday by Mrs. Clarence Renshaw, who talked of "The Need of Club Federation." Mrs. C. A. Redick gave a review of the current events of the summer. Miss Henrietta Costin read a short story written by Mrs. Julia Chandler French, and music by Miss Milligan, vocalist, and Mrs. Anton Burchard, pianist, concluded the program. Tea and a social hour followed. The society, through a misunderstanding, will be unable to meet this year in the Allnda school as announced, and instead its meetings will be conducted in the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music.

Vassar Girls Will Give "Bluebird."

Mrs. Albert C. Daschbach entertained the members of the Vassar Students' Aid society yesterday in her home in Thornberg. This first meeting of the club this season was followed by an informal tea. The society decided to give the musical comedy "Bluebird," which it has had in rehearsal for some time, either the last week in October or the first week in November, at Duquesne garden. Preliminary arrangements were also made for a luncheon which will be given at the Hotel Schenley some time during the holidays in order that the Vassar students who come home for the vacation may attend. The society this year is maintaining two scholarships at Vassar, each amounting to $300, and two girls from Western Pennsylvania have taken advantage of the opportunity, passing successfully the examinations, and are doing excellent work in the college.

Club Notes.

The president day reception of the Thursday Afternoon club of Wilkinsburg will be observed next Thursday afternoon in the Pennwood club rooms.

Today the Women's Civic club of Oakmont will meet at the home of Mrs. A. C. Davis of B street. Among the questions to be discussed will be the district nurse association.

The Travelers club will meet on Tuesday afternoon, October 10, under the leadership of Mrs. W. Harvey McKinney. This will be the first regular meeting of the club this season.

Next Wednesday will be president's day with the New Era club. The members and their friends will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Norwood Johnston in South Rebecca avenue, at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Dallas Albert, the president of Pittsburgh Sorosis, and the recording secretary of the Women's Press club of Pittsburgh, moved to her old home in Latrobe yesterday. Mrs. Albert will still be identified with the Pittsburgh clubs, coming into the city to attend their meetings.

News of Society.

MANY local people will be interested in the wedding of Miss Ada Sorg of Middletown, O., and Lieut. Pierre Drouelarde, U. S. N., of Nashville, Tenn, which is set for Wednesday, November 1. Both Miss Sorg and her fiance were attendants at the wedding of the former's brother, Paul Arthur Sorg, and Miss Grace Watson Aull, which took place in Christ Methodist Episcopal church, this city, in June, 1904. It is somewhat singular that out of the Aull-Sorg bridal party, this will be the fourth couple to marry since that wedding, the others having been Miss Jeannette Nicholson and J. Raymond Price; Miss Carrie Rose and Frank Shepard; Miss Nell Young Hay and Jacob Francis Meyer, while the engagement of Albert Curry and Miss Katherine Elkins, also members of the party, have since been announced. Miss Sorg is a daughter of the late Paul J. Sorg, millionaire tobacco manufacturer and Ohio congressman. The wedding will be a half military home affair, and after the wedding journey, the couple will live in Middletown. Mrs. Arthur Sorg will be included in the bridal party.

Benefit Whist to Open New Home.

More than ordinary interest is being taken in the benefit whist to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kaufmann on Wednesday evening, October 25. The proceeds of the affair are to go to the Women's Pavilion of the National Jewish Home for Consumptives, in Denver, Col., the executive board of which institution includes several local men and women. The cause is a worthy one and the tickets, which sell for $5 a couple, are rapidly being disposed of. Aside from the charitable aspect of the affair, it will be a notable occasion as it will formally open the magnificent new home of Mr. and Mrs. Kaufmann on Beacon street, Squirrel Hill, a home which the family has only recently entered, is one of the most beautiful in the city and from its position on the hill near Wightman street, commands a splendid view of the surrounding part of the city. Each room is furnished and finished in the style of a certain period, every detail being of like design.

There will be other attractions at the benefit in addition to the whist for which a great number of exquisite prizes have been donated. The committee in charge of the affair includes Mrs. Josiah Cohen, Mrs. M. Oppenheimer, Mrs. Isaac Guckenheimer, Mrs. Jacob Kaufmann, Mrs. Bertha Denswanger, Mrs. Cass Sunstein, Mrs. A. M. Haas and Mrs. Marcus Rauh. They will be assisted by a number of other women and several young girls. The members of the committee wish to emphasize the fact that the home in Denver, although founded and supported by Jewish people, is non-sectarian and is doing a wonderful work among people of other religious sects. Tickets for the benefit may be procured from any member of the committee.

New Debutante Dates.

Miss Margarita Frew, Mr. and Mrs. William Nimick Frew's elder daughter, will make her formal bow to society at a tea which her mother will give on the afternoon of Thursday, December 7, at "Beechwood Hall," the family home in Fifth avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Frew will also give a cotillion at the Pittsburgh club in their daughter's honor.

Tuesday afternoon, December 5, is the date for the tea to be given by Mrs. George Harton Singer for her debutante daughter, Miss Hester Singer.

Wedding Day Is Chosen.

Miss Mary Worthington has chosen Tuesday, November 7, as the date for her wedding to William Terrill Johnson. The wedding will be a quiet affair, taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Worthington, in Forbes street, at 7 o'clock in the evening. Mr. Johnson and his bride will be at home in the Iroquois apartments on days after January 1. Invitations for the wedding will be issued shortly.

Miss Stone Gives Unique Affair.

Miss Jean Stone of North avenue, Allegheny, was hostess at a prettily appointed dinner last evening at her home in North avenue, Allegheny. The honors of the occasion were shared by Miss Alice Thomas and her fiance, Lieut. William Goff Capels, of the United States engineering corps. A large American flag was draped across the mantel in the dining-room and the centerpiece was of red and white dahlias, while for place cards there were tiny silk banners. Miss Julia Rodgers of St. Paul, Miss Stone's visiting friend, was among the guests. At the close of the dinner a canteen was passed and toasts were drunk to the bride and bridegroom-elect. Miss Jane Lloyd, one of the maids chosen to attend Miss Thomas, gave an informal little luncheon for the bride yesterday afternoon, the guests in addition to the girls in the bridal party, including Mrs. I. M. Fickelson and Miss Mary Lloyd.

An Engagement Luncheon.

The Rev. J. Alvin and Mrs. Hazlett entertained very informally at their home, Four Mile, Beaver county, on Wednesday evening last in honor of Miss Virginia Stevenson, to announce the engagement of Miss Stevenson to Dr. John William Spilman of West Liberty, W. Va. The evening was delightfully spent, and the announcement was made at luncheon when covers were laid for twenty-five. The announcement was in the form of dainty hand-painted cards, hidden in the folds of floral napkins. Both young people are prominent in social circles in the valley towns. The wedding will take place early in November.

Bellevue Cotillion Dances.

Beginning next Monday evening the Bellevue Cotillion, a club composed of the younger set of Bellevue people, will open the second season of Monday evening dances. The cotillion was organized only last winter, and had a most successful season. The dances are to be held in the Masonic hall.

Mrs. W. J. Noah of Ben Avon, and Mrs. M. L. Cunningham of Emsworth have gone to Denver, Col.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Wurstel of Orchard avenue, Bellevue, have just returned from a five months' trip through Europe.

THE LAXATIVE OF KNOWN QUALITY

There are two classes of remedies; those of known quality and which are permanently beneficial in effect, acting gently, in harmony with nature, when nature needs assistance; and another class, composed of preparations of unknown, uncertain and inferior character, acting temporarily, but injuriously, as a result of forcing the natural functions unnecessarily. One of the most exceptional of the remedies of known quality and excellence is the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., which represents the active principles of plants, known to act most beneficially, in a pleasant syrup, in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to contribute their rich, yet delicate, fruity flavor. It is the remedy of all remedies to sweeten and refresh and cleanse the system gently and naturally, and to assist one in overcoming constipation and the many ills resulting therefrom. Its active principles and quality are known to physicians generally, and the remedy has therefore met with their approval, as well as with the favor of many millions of well informed persons who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual experience that it is a most excellent laxative remedy. We do not claim that it will cure all manner of ills, but recommend it for what it really represents, a laxative remedy of known quality and excellence, containing nothing of an objectionable or injurious character.

There are two classes of purchasers; those who are informed as to the quality of what they buy and the reasons for the excellence of articles of exceptional merit, and who do not lack courage to go elsewhere when a dealer offers an imitation of any well known article; but, unfortunately, there are some people who do not know, and who allow themselves to be imposed upon. They cannot expect its beneficial effects if they do not get the genuine remedy.

To the credit of the druggists of the United States be it said that nearly all of them value their reputation for professional integrity and the good will of their customers too highly to offer imitations of the

LAYMEN REFUSE TO BE TRICKED

Effort to Commit Methodist Episcopal Convention to Support Berry Fails.

WILL VOTE AS THEY PLEASE

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM JEROME J. NORDMAN, Staff Correspondent.

BEAVER, Oct. 6.—A strenuous but utterly unsuccessful effort was made this morning at the organization of the Pittsburgh Lay association of the Methodist Episcopal church, to commit that organization to the Prohibition party and secure its indorsement for Candidate W. H. Berry for state treasurer.

Repeated efforts to commit the delegates to vote for Berry failed, and when it became clear to the political workers for Berry that the lay association was determined to remain a religious organization in preference to a political club, a resolution which had been carefully prepared was not presented. Instead, a meaningless and colorless resolution slipped through with four others during the afternoon.

When the delegates entered the chapel of Beaver college each was presented with a copy of a letter said to have been sent out by the Allegheny County Liquor Dealers' Protective association, which stated that "the result of the election is of vital interest to every licensed dealer," and that "William H. Berry is supported by the Anti-Saloon league and other Prohibition agitators." This circular was prefaced by the following:

Dear Sir and Brother:—I desire to call your attention to the following, which is a true copy of a circular letter now being circulated in this state. Yours truly,
W. H. BERRY.

Following devotional exercises D. K. Murray, the president, arose. He was on the program to make the "president's address." His address was devoted wholly to a plea that the organization support prohibition and the prohibition political ticket by their votes. Adverse comment was freely expressed. Attorney Harvey Henderson denounced the recent legislature and United States Senator Penrose. Before others could be heard a delegate gained the floor who said he had voted the Prohibition ticket for 33 years and wasn't sorry for it, and was going to vote for it this time, because such a good man was running on it. Then the trouble started.

One delegate after the other, including such men as Attorney J. W. Kinnear and Samuel Hamilton, did not approve of the proposition. They declared that the delegates should attend the primaries and see that proper men were nominated there and that there were other issues, fully as important, to be decided at the polls.

Chairman Murray dwelt upon the importance of supporting the prohibition movement and ticket, and continued to keep the meeting discussing it in an effort to carry the day. Meanwhile E. A. Young, who had come from Allegheny to read a paper on "The Sunday School," and who was announced to do so on the program, made known the fact that he had to return home at noon. This did not interfere with the political program and Mr. Young had to depart without being heard.

When it was seen that the convention would not stand for a resolution indorsing Berry an adjournment was taken. During the afternoon the following meaningless resolution was pushed through at a time when four resolutions were passed at once:

Resolved, That the time has come when the people of the churches should unite to suppress public evils by enforcing the law and moral force, and refusing to vote for unfit men for office.

GERMANY'S EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM IS PRAISED

Dr. T. B. Noss of California State Normal School Talks to South Side Graduates.

Dr. T. B. Noss, principal of the California State Normal school, told the graduating class of the Bedford sub-district last night that a man's education consists of many things besides book learning. Dr. Noss praised the German system and tried to impress upon his youthful hearers that true politeness cuts a deep figure in young people's training. The commencement exercises were held in the South Thirteenth street Turner hall, before a big audience.

Dr. Noss said that if he were a Pittsburgh taxpayer he would vote for the school director who would provide the best and the most economical educational advantages. Instructive addresses also were delivered by Dr. H. R. Holbrook of the South Side High school and Dr. Samuel Andrews, city superintendent. A congratulatory address was delivered by Miss Pearl Farrell, of the class of 1902. Among interesting numbers were vocal selections by Miss Jane McKelvie, Miss Ursula B. Reiss, James and John McKelvie and piano solos by Miss Pearl Hilda Hoffman and William Dugan, both of the class of 1904. The presentation of diplomas was made by Secretary William H. Zlefel, of the school board. The list of graduates follows:

Ethel A. Cornwall, George W. Emmel, Allen I. Goldston, Katherine R. Kinney, Emma M. Meier, Lottie Poulton, Vincent Rozaski, Stella B. Reiff, Elizabeth Roehn, Dora V. Spreen, James H. Spotts, Louis F. Steel, Charles K. White and Ruth Amanda White. Prof. E. W. Dalbey is principal of the Bedford school.

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED.

"Travelers' Day" at the Expo Promises to Be Biggest Day of the Season.

Today will be one of the biggest of the season at the Exposition. The usual large crowds of Saturday will be augmented by several thousand members of the Commercial Travelers' Protective association and their friends, one of the largest organizations in this end of the state. In former years "Travelers' Day" has proved among the record-breaking ones in point of attendance at the Expo and today will be no exception, judging from the number of inquiries made as to the special program for the entertainment of the traveling men this afternoon and night.

Creatore will bring his two weeks' engagement to a close tonight. He will conduct the concert this afternoon and in honor of the traveling men and the thousands of out-of-town visitors, he has arranged a program of exceptional merit. It is on the popular order, yet sandwiched in among these popular numbers are found Wagner, Verdi and Waldteufel selections.

Last night was "Classical Night" at the Exposition and might well have been designated "Society Night." Representatives of hundreds of Pittsburgh's best families were among those who packed the music hall until not a seat was obtainable. A better concert has not been given by Creatore during his two weeks. The applause which greeted the selections amply testified to the intelligent appreciation of the audience.

The programs for this afternoon follow:

3:00 P. M.
March, "American Navy".....Creatore
Overture, "Poet and Peasant".....Suppe
(a) "Loin du Bal".....Gillet
(b) Gavotte from "Mignon".....Thomas
Minuette (for reeds only).....Baccherini
Selections from "Serenade".....Herbert

4:00 P. M.
March, "Tannhauser".....Wagner
Miserere from "Il Trovatore".....Verdi
Cornet solo, "Non e ver".....Mattei
Sig. Pierno.
Polka, "Mezzanotte".....Waldteufel
Grand Selection, "Mefistofele".....Boito
Solos by Signori Pierno and Forcelatti.

His Plea Was in Vain.

Frank Culbert, aged 37, was held for court last night by Justice Holtzman of Braddock, on a charge of assault and battery with intent to commit a felony, preferred by Mrs. Ida Rupert, of 518 Sixth street. The latter alleges that while she was at work in her kitchen the defendant entered and maltreated her. He fled when someone approached but was arrested shortly after by two policemen. Culbert pleaded intoxication.

Edward Freel Falls Down Stairs.

While descending a flight of stairs leading from the Citizens' headquarters, in the Nineteenth ward, Penn avenue, near Collins avenue, last night, Edward Freel, one of the superintendents of the bureau of highways and sewers, slipped and fell, cutting a great gash in his head. He was picked up in an unconscious condition. It was necessary to put eight stitches in the wound.

MOVE TO CRUSH BURNS FACTION

Amalgamated Window Glass Workers Decide to Double Up and Divide Pay.

IDLE MEN GET EMPLOYMENT

A radical move for self-protection and intended to crush out the Simon Burns organization of window glass workers was made last night by the Burns rival, the Amalgamated, at a meeting on the South Side, by a decision to "double up" by workers now employed dividing their work and pay with those who are not employed.

Locally this will result in about 96 men who have been out of work at the Cunningham plant on the South Side since last May, being given half time at the McKee plant, the men at the McKee plant agreeing to this arrangement to prevent the employes of the Cunningham factory going over to the Burns organization.

A meeting was held last night of about 400 window glass workers of the Amalgamated organization at the headquarters in Carson street, near Fifteenth, which was addressed by President A. L. Faulkner and Secretary C. Lee Tarr, both of Cleveland. "Teach them a lesson, a lesson they will not forget," said President Faulkner, and his audience cheered the sentiment.

All Plants to "Double Up."

Not only will the decision to "double up" affect the local plants, but also every plant controlled by the Amalgamated in opposition to the Burns body. It will include all the plants operated under the Amalgamated in the Allegheny valley and at other points.

The Amalgamated claims to have jurisdiction over 1,000 pots, which represents about 4,000 men. The arrangement affects not only the blowers and the gatherers, who are the best paid, but also the cutters and the flatteners. A blower makes from $38 to $40 a week, but under the new arrangement which is devised to put the Burns people out of business, two men will divide this amount and each will receive $18 to $20 a week.

The rule will go into effect at the McKee plant on the South Side at once. It is stated that even this method will not give employment to all the men from the Cunningham plant, but it is announced that the surplus labor will be sent to other plants, the organization bearing the expense of their transportation. The Cunningham plant, when working full, employes about 96 skilled men and the McKee plant about 75. This shows a surplus of 15 or 20 men who will be sent to other points at the expense of the union.

Answer to Burns' Threat.

The leaders of the Amalgamated say that this action may cause the Cunningham concern to sign the Burns scale, but they claim the Burns people will not be able to produce the men to run the plant. The same policy will be pursued at every one of the plants where the Amalgamated holds sway.

The wage committee of the Amalgamated returned last night from a trip among the factories up the Allegheny valley and reported that the workers of all would "double up" everywhere to keep the organization intact. This is the answer of the Amalgamated to the threat of Simon Burns to go into court and secure injunctions against the manufacturers to stop them operating under the Amalgamated scale after signing the Cedar Point scale of the L. A. 300, of which Burns is the president.

The move threatened by President Burns was ridiculed at last night's South Side meeting and the speakers declared that if the Amalgamated men stood together they would win and that the Burns organization was bound to go under. They said that some radical remedy was required because the manufacturers were rapidly growing tired and disgusted with the strife existing between the two rival bodies of window glass workers.

ACTIVITY AMONG HOTELS.

Formal Opening of Two Local Hostelries Precedes Big Philadelphia Convention of Proprietors.

The second annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Hotel association will be held on October 16 and 17, at the New Bingham house, Philadelphia. The date for the convention was necessarily postponed and the delay in gathering, it is expected, will add to the interest of the convention. On October 18 the delegates have been invited to be the guests of the Atlantic City Hotel Men's association in a trip to the seashore.

The Philadelphia convention will closely follow two important dates in Pittsburgh's hotel history, two local hostelries having their formal openings tonight. The Buckingham, under the management of William H. Marshall, will open its doors at Craft avenue and Kennett square with a reception at 7 o'clock. The formal opening of the Lincoln under its new management will take place this evening with a reception between the hours of 4 and 8 p. m.

Appeals to British Ambassador.

Oliver Young, arrested because of his alleged connection with George F. Sulzbach, who was taken into custody by federal officers recently, was yesterday ordered by Magistrate Negley to forfeit $25 or serve 30 days in the workhouse. He paid the forfeit under protest and has forwarded a statement of his case to the British ambassador at Washington for investigation, he being a British subject. Young declares that his only connection with Sulzbach has been that of a telegraph operator in his employ. He says he worked with him in Montreal, Boston, Providence and Philadelphia.

WEAVER TURNS A SOMERSAULT

Advises People to Vote for a Measure Which He Has Disapproved.

ORGANIZATION IS JUBILANT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Press Building,
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.

Mayor Weaver tonight sent a chill to the marrow of the "reform" political leaders by issuing a proclamation advising the people to vote for the grade crossing appropriation of $4,000,000. The Republican leaders are delighted. Within 24 hours the mayor has twice reversed himself on important matters of public policy.

Four weeks ago Mayor Weaver, in a message to councils said: "I am unalterably opposed to all temporary loans and will do all in my power to defeat them."

He reiterated this sentiment at a mass meeting last Monday night, yet yesterday he approved the Delaware channel bill appropriating $375,000, which he has denounced since it was proposed, notwithstanding the state made an equal appropriation, and the federal government is to give $3,500,000, of which $1,000,000 was contingent upon the state and municipal grants. Senator Penrose and the other Republican leaders secured the money from the legislature and from councils, without his approval, the ordinance granting $4,000,000 to be used in abolishing grade crossings. Councils passed the bill notwithstanding the veto. This was a victory for the organization. The loans must be voted on at the November election. Orders were last sent out from City party headquarters to work against both channel and grade crossing propositions. Now comes the mayor's proclamation urging the voters to support them.

The only excuse Mr. Weaver gives for his somersault is that if the loan bill is not approved this fall it will be a year before it can again be submitted. Republican leaders say that, as a lawyer, the mayor should have known this from the start; that he has played for delay, lost, and is now trying to get into the procession of popular sentiment.

That the Weaver-Wanamaker-Gordon combine has over-played itself was indicated today when two of its strongest newspaper supporters, the "Public Ledger" and the "Evening Bulletin" demanded the police be withdrawn from politics. Superintendent Taylor, who in person has been leading police demonstrations at meetings, was criticized and his dismissal recommended.

The work committee of select councils, appointed to investigate the mayor, met today. It was announced it has its evidence in shape and will begin regular sittings next week. A. S. L. Shields and Alexander Simpson, Jr., will act as counsel for the committee.

New electric signs were ablaze tonight. One reads in red, white and blue letters: "The subsidized newspapers are against the party of Lincoln and Roosevelt. Vote the full Republican ticket."

GRACE,

RAPID FLUCTUATIONS IN CALL LOAN RATES

Sudden Decline from 7 1-2 to Offers at 1% and a Final Loan at 2 3-4%—Bad Break in Fire Proofing Preferred in Pittsburgh.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The wildest fluctuations on the New York stock exchange yesterday were in the rates for call loans. The money market attracted more attention than the stock market and dominated the latter. There was a fair degree of activity at the opening, but speculation relapsed into dullness, awaiting developments in the money market.

Borrowers began to look after the supplying of their needs early in the day, and the first loan was at 6¾ per cent. An advance to 7 per cent occurred, followed by a drop to 6 and another advance to 7½, and for a time this rate was bid without attracting lenders. It was confidently expected that the rate would reach 10 per cent before the close of the day; but late in the afternoon there was a sudden drop to 2¾ per cent, and at one time money was reported offered at 1 per cent. This, however, was purely nominal, the final loan being at 2¾ per cent and the closing offer 2 per cent.

There was no adequate explanation for this easing off in the rate, but it produced the desired effect, so far as the stock market was concerned. Prices rallied easily, and the tone was steady to firm at the close, although net changes were irregular.

The easing off of call loan rates was responsible for the feeling that prevailed after the close of the market that today's bank statement would be unexpectedly favorable. The usual preliminary estimates of the movements of money during the week were made, showing a loss of $4,751,604 in shipments of currency to the interior and $1,467,000 through sub-treasury operations, a total of $6,218,504. One estimate placed the loss as high as $7,321,000. These results were reached by computing what was described as the "known" movements of money since the compilation of the last bank statement, but in view of the wide discrepancy between these weekly estimates and the official figures which became very conspicuous last Saturday, the street was not influenced by the attempt to forecast the actual statement. The dominating influence was the continued weakness in foreign securities and the firmness of foreign money markets, indicating that Wall street monetary conditions were general. It was authoritatively announced that $4,400,000 gold had been engaged in Paris for shipment to the United States, but it was not stated whether or not this was the same gold which was reported on Thursday to have been engaged for shipment to the London market. There were also unconfirmed rumors that a large amount of gold had been engaged in Berlin for shipment to New York, and these may have had something to do with the relaxation of the rate during the afternoon.

The tone of the stock market was heavy during the early part of the session, due to apprehension regarding money, but later in the afternoon there was a good recovery and the tone became firm. The iron and steel stocks, which suffered most on the decline, led the recovery and United States Steel issues closed only ¼ below the day before. American Locomotive common was the most active of its group and made a strong rally to 56½ at the close, a net gain of 2 per cent. Republic Steel common closed ½ higher and Colorado Fuel & Iron ⅜ higher. United States Rubber common was weak and closed 1¾ lower. Amelgamated Copper and Smelting closed unchanged for the day. The net changes in the railroad list were fractional, with the exception of New York Central, which closed 1 per cent higher. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific each made splendid reports of earnings for August, but both closed at a net loss of ¼ per cent. St. Paul and Pennylvania each closed ½ lower.

The feature of the local stock market was a bad break in National Fire Proofing preferred, with corresponding weakness in the common. The preferred opened lower at 24¾ and sold down to 22, recovering to 22 at the close, a net loss of $2 a share. The common declined from 6½ to 5 and recovered to 5¾. The weakness was based upon the growing feeling that the effort to obtain a favorable bid for the proposed bond issue had been unsuccessful, and that the necessities of the company might force a reduction or passage of the dividend on the preferred stock. Final action will not be taken until next week, but it was street rumor yesterday that the bond proposition had been temporarily dropped. Crucible Steel was also heavy, the common declining to 13 and the preferred to 67¼, the latter closing at the lowest, a loss of ⅞ per cent. American Sewer Pipe was active and weak, 1,350 shares changing hands at 33 to 32½, the final sale being at 32¾, a loss of ½ per cent. The natural gas stocks were dull and rather heavy, and Pittsburgh Oil and Gas declined 1 per cent to 65. Pittsburgh Coal preferred recovered to 88 and the common sold unchanged at 15. Westinghouse Air Brake was firmer, selling at 150. A small lot of Electric first preferred sold at 95, a decline of a point compared with the last previous sale. There were no transactions in bonds.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The annual report of the Crucible Steel Company was mailed to stockholders last night, and very liberal extracts therefrom are published in another column of this morning's Gazette. The net earnings of $2,132,480 are very close to the estimates, and the board of directors state that if expectations as to earnings are realized "we see no reason why the company should not begin the payment of dividends on the preferred stock in the near future, though for a time it may be advisable to make them less than the full rate." The Crucible statement, however, is interesting to others than stockholders. It shows a wonderful recuperation in the affairs of the company, which is reflected in the anticipation of payment of floating indebtedness to the extent of $800,000, and the reduction of the total debt from $6,203,767 a year ago to $3,650,189 at the present time. It is also seen in the fact that a year ago the company had a deficit of $1,999,000, while today this deficit has not only been wiped out, but there remains a surplus of more than $135,000. All this is suggestive of what is possible with other companies which were forced to reduce or suspend dividends, but which are now participating with the iron and steel industry in what promises to be a long period of prosperity. Possibly the most gratifying feature of the Crucible report to stockholders is the announcement that it has been found unnecessary to issue any part of the authorized $7,000,000 bonds which were voted a year ago, when the present management assumed control. The net debt which stands between Crucible stock and the property approximates only $1,258,000, and of this total only $171,000 is mortgaged debt. During the past fiscal year the bulk of the profits in the business were made in the six months ended with August 31. A continuation of the present degree of prosperity throughout the new fiscal year should see the property entirely cleared of debt and the full rate of dividend restored on the preferred stock.

At luncheon at the Duquesne club yesterday Comptroller of the Currency William B. Ridgley made this statement to a member of the Pittsburgh stock exchange: "There is nothing alarming in a 7 per cent call loan market in New York at this time. Higher money rates always prevail at this season. It is the one time of the year when bankers can participate with others in prevailing prosperity. I do not look for a long-continued period of high rates, and there is nothing in the present money market to cause uneasiness."

It is reported that negotiations for the merger of the lead companies will be taken up this month, with the prospect that the deal will go through this time.

Gross earnings of Union Pacific for August increased $946,846 and net earnings increased $467,477. Gross earnings of Southern Pacific for the same month increased $812,560 and net earnings increased $386,462.

The directors of the Consolidated Ice Company of Pittsburgh have declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on the preferred stock, payable October 20.

United States Rubber Company reports net earnings for the first six months of the present fiscal year, September partly estimated, of $2,005,887, against $2,108,486 in the same time last year. The stock was the weakest of the industrials yesterday.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. yesterday sent out the following notice to New York stock exchange houses and other borrowers of money from them: "Monday, October 9, being the Jewish day of atonement, no business will be transacted at our office. Loans cannot be repaid on that day and substitution of collateral cannot be handled. Unless you desire your loans to stand over Monday, please repay the same today. Exchange of securities can be made on Saturday until noon if desired."

Moorhead's Quarterly Record of Pittsburgh stock exchange securities for October is out, and contains statistical information relating to stocks and bonds quoted in the local market. The publication gives an official answer to a thousand questions which daily arise in connection with the market.

A strong rally occurred in North Butte both here and in Boston. On the latter exchange the stock opened at 54, broke to 53 and recovered to 56, closing at 55½ bid, 56 asked. Local traders continue bullish on the stock.

Gould issues were not affected by the pending contest over the control of Wabash, or by the latest reported earnings. For the fourth week in September gross earnings of Missouri Pacific decreased $207,000, and for the month decreased $444,000. Texas Pacific decreased $145,989 for September.

The Central District and Printing Telegraph Company has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable October 31 to stock of record October 24.

In the local curb market the sale of 500 shares Golden Anchor was reported at 8½ and 100 shares Kansas Natural Gas at 50. Fayette County Natural Gas was quoted at 97 bid, 99 asked, and Union Natural Gas was offered at 105. Oriental and Mashate was quoted at 80 bid.

The New York stock exchange membership of the late W. H. Strong, of Strong, Sturgis & Co., was sold this week for $85,000. This is the record for stock exchange memberships.

The United Electric Securities Company of Boston has declared a regular semi-annual dividend of $4.50 per share on the preferred stock, payable November 1 to stock of record October 21.

The Congress Hotel Company (Chicago Auditorium) has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent for the quarter ending September 30. Although the company has been from time to time declaring an extra dividend of 2 per cent this action was not taken at the last meeting.

The output of the Dominion Coal Company for September was 221,263 tons, an increase of 48,554 tons over the same month last year. The shipments during September were 226,852 tons. The output for nine months was 1,741,934 tons, against 1,434,779 tons in the corresponding period in 1904.

Representatives of 18 breweries located in Central Michigan formed a co-operative brewing company, representing about $6,000,000 capital. Details of the organization will be arranged at a meeting to be held shortly in Saginaw.

The rate for sterling exchange went lower in New York in response to the stiff money market. Exports of wheat for the week showed a decline of 982,280 bushels from those of last week, thus explaining the scarcity of grain bills in the exchange market.

Some of the New York trust companies were reported to be calling loans yesterday and this gave the impression that those institutions had about reached the limit of their ability to relieve borrowers from the banks by transfer of loans, a process which has gone on steadily for several weeks past. This feeling was strengthened by the depletion of bank reserves still uninterrupted, an actual contraction of credits would be indicated for the immediate future rather than the shifting about of accommodations to enable the banks to preserve the semblance of a surplus which has gone on up to this time. The probability of a weak bank return today also came in for considerable stress. There is the chance that the readjustment of the incongruities presented in last week's bank statement may throw over some of the poor results of last week's banking operations into this week's statement. This may affect the showing of the loan item, which the calling of loans during the week naturally tend to reduce. The sub-treasury has made disbursements thus far this week $1,467,000, as compared with nearly $7,000,000 last week. But estimates by bankers of the regular movement of currency to and from the interior indicate a sufficient balance of the movement against New York to bring again a cash loss for the banks of $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 this week. It is expected that presentations will begin for the payment at the end of the week of the last installment of Japanese loan subscriptions, which calls for a maximum of about $30,000,000, modified to the extent that payments in full may have been anticipated.

Foreign money markets were somewhat disturbed by the money position. Paris selling investment securities in London and London selling in New York. There was a slight reaction in the discount rate at Berlin, but the rate advanced in London to within a shade of the bank rate, and there was a slight upward reaction from the recent downward course of sterling exchange in Paris. It could not be definitely learned that any part of the day's large arrivals of gold in London had been secured for New York, but a report was circulated that yesterday's withdrawal of $4,400,000 from the Bank of France was destined for New York. And every London item reported. Intimations from Washington that plans were taking form for an issue of Panama canal bonds took their place with other subjects bearing on future requirements on the money market.

NEW APARTMENTS FOR SHADYSIDE

J. B. Jones Will Erect Handsome Structures at Millvale and Ben Venue Avenues.

NEW LOT PLAN AT BELLEVUE

J. B. Jones is having plans prepared by a local architect for three apartment houses to be erected at the southwest corner of Millvale and Ben Venue avenues, Twentieth ward. The site measures 90x130 feet, extending back to an alley. On the Millvale front stands a large frame house which is now being moved back to the rear to face in Ben Venue avenue, and thus leave all the Millvale avenue frontage available for the proposed buildings. These will be three-story structures with a handsome front trimmed with terra cotta, and will be set back some 20 feet from the street, leaving abundant room for porches and lawns. Each building will contain six suites of six rooms and bath, which in this locality should rent readily for $60 a month. The estimated cost of the buildings is put at $60,000, and the site is valued at about $22,000.

East End Sales Announced.

The Gillespie-Curll Company has sold to William Kemmler, Jr., two lots, 24x100 feet each, at Penn avenue and Twenty-fifth street, Twelfth ward, for $16,000. The improvements consist of two large brick houses.

The Stanton Land Company has conveyed to Charles Schwan 21 lots facing in Hawthorne street between Farmington and Fairfield streets, Twenty-first ward, for $13,000.

Architect W. A. Thomas has sold to George Lang a residence property, 34x103 feet, at Amber street and Friendship avenue, Twentieth ward, for $11,200.

The Aronson Realty Company has secured the exclusive agency for 21 houses in Harrison street, Lawrenceville, which rent for $4,800 a year.

It is understood that the Women's Christian association of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, which secured title to the property at 210 Stockton avenue, Allegheny, Thursday, is negotiating for more property adjoining. As the association now owns 75x240 feet at the corner of Union avenue, considerable curiosity is being manifested as to its ultimate plans.

New Bellevue Plan Nearly Ready.

The new allotment known as Bellevue Extension will be formally thrown open to the public Monday. Next Friday and Saturday have been named as the first regular sales days by the agents, Keck, Helle & Daschbach. The property, which is best known as the Orth holdings, comes up to the borough line of Bellevue on the east and extends to the lots 40 and 50 feet wide. This week nearly 100 men and 23 teams have been working to complete the grading and have nearly finished the bridge over the small ravine which runs through the plan. An evidence of the general prosperity which the laboring classes of this city are enjoying is found in the fact that although this firm offered $1.60 a day for common laborers and $2.00 a day for teams they had to advertise repeatedly for help enough to get their plan on in schedule time.

Princeton road, the newly opened entrance to Brighton Heights, is proving a popular street with lot buyers this week for already one-third of the 60 lots have been sold. These lots have the advantage of one or more large oak trees on nearly every lot, and face in a street that will be macadamized soon, and which affords a short cut from the car lines to Brighton Heights. The company's office will be moved next week from Termon avenue to Davis avenue and Termon avenue will be plowed up preparatory to paving it.

In Centervue, the new Wilkinsburg allotment which the Burns & Reilly Real Estate Company is handling, the sewers are completed in James street and one-half of Center street, and five foot concrete sidewalks are being laid. Eighty men have been at work all the week grading the streets which will be finished by Tuesday. Nearly 40 more have been at work on the sidewalks, sewers and water connections. During the week a big proportion of the lots in Foliage avenue, the most beautiful street of the plan, have been sold, mostly to buyers from the Westinghouse works, who expect to improve them soon with houses to cost not less than $6,000 each.

Gain of 52 Per Cent.

September's total of building operations again emphasize the wonderful prosperity that is evident in all sections of the country, for there is no better barometer of general industrial and trade conditions than the amount of building going ahead. According to the Construction News of Chicago permits were issued for the erection of 10,260 buildings to cost $44,280,535, as compared with 8,586 buildings to cost $29,121,273 in September, 1904. This is a net gain of over $15,000,000, or 52 per cent. Generally speaking, the most noticeable increase was found in cities of moderate size, while in August the big gains were all made in the large cities. Pittsburgh ranks tenth in the list of 26 big cities and shows a falling off from last year of 75 per cent, which is to be attributed chiefly to the fact that the permit for the Carnegie institute addition was issued last year.

In point of relative gains the cities stand thus: Buffalo, 141; Minneapolis, 138; Nashville, 132; Milwaukee, 112; St. Paul, 102; Memphis, 96; Atlanta, 94; New York, 86; Detroit, 82; Cleveland, 66; Brooklyn, 58; Kansas City, 56; New Orleans, 53; Allegheny, 54, and Philadelphia, 44 per cent. Denver suffered a loss of 19, Davenport 18, Minneapolis 11, and Los Angeles 9 per cent. New York's total, including Manhattan, was $14,165,000, and Davenport had the smallest total, being only $57,475.

Atlantic ave: James Kurtz sold to Nannie J. McCartney, an improved lot, 31x133 feet, in Atlantic avenue, near Millvale avenue, Twentieth ward, for $7,500.

South Side: John P. Ober sold to Martha Mantia an improved lot, 17x122 feet, on the south side of Carson street, near Twenty-eighth street, Twenty-fourth ward, for $5,000.

Congress street: Hyman Saul sold to Fannie Seigle an improved lot, 24x45 feet, on the east side of Congress street, Seventh ward, for $4,900.

Fingal street: M. Gobolin sold to B. B. Black 40x300 feet on the north side of Fingal street, Thirty-fifth ward, for $2,200.

Oakland: Andrew McClain sold to Isabella Simon an improved lot, 25x100 feet, at Louisa street and Meyran avenue, Fourteenth ward, for $4,000.

The building inspection bureau issued the following permits yesterday: To the Eleventh ward school board, for a school building, Miller street, $85,000; to the Minersville sub-school district, for an extension, Thirty-third and Ridge streets, $9,400; to Arsino Arcanlo, brick dwelling, Fifty ward, Clay alley, $8,000; to John Blanck, dwelling, Dowling street, Fifth ward, $2,500; to J. J. Blanck, 6243 Shakespeare street, extension to storage house, $8,000.

OHIO CHEESE GOES UP; MORE CANNED GOODS

Receipts of Grapes Are 25 to 30 Cars Daily—Lower Prices on Chestnuts.

Ohio cheese, three-fourths cream, made an advance of one cent yesterday which was well sustained. Other varieties remained at old quotations with a fair demand. Eggs were slightly stronger in market, but the arrivals continue to keep the quotations from advancing. In the grocery line no changes were noted. Flour and sugar are firm at present quotations and new varieties of canned goods are arriving.

Grapes still continue to have the call in the fruit market. From 25 to 30 cars a day are now being received, most of the fruit coming from New York with a small amount from the Lake Shore district in Ohio. Bartlett pears are out of market. California lemons are in stock at $5 00 a box. Eight-pound baskets of grapes were yesterday quoted down one cent. The price ruling at about 10 cents. Chestnuts are in larger stock and the price dropped to two cents a pound yesterday.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts yesterday were: Pennsylvania lines—Nine cars hay, 17 cars oats, 2 cars straw, 3 cars feeds, 1 car rye. Baltimore & Ohio—Eight cars hay, 4 cars oats, 1 car seed. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie—Five cars hay, 2 cars corn, 1 car rye, 1 car flour.

Receipts were light yesterday and the market was firm in all lines. A better inquiry is noted for clover and clover mixed hay and arrivals were quickly picked up. No. 1 and No. 2 mixed were each advanced 50 cents a ton. No. 3 white oats were also put up a quarter with a stiff demand in sight.

The Wool Market.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The Commercial Bulletin will say of the wool market tomorrow:

Business has got down to a smaller basis, owing to the fact that the larger mills are stocked for the present and lines of active woods are so badly broken. It would be hard to obtain more than 1,000,000 pounds of any line of territory. The market is unquestionably strong and in no spot is there any indication of weakness. Territory wools have sold in lots up to 50,000 pounds, and in a few cases larger amounts have been transferred. Fleeces have moved quite freely at full market prices. Dealers show no inclination to make concessions on any of their holdings.

Australian wools had some demand, while pulled wools have been generally quiet, as also have been South American.

Growers' views in the west and southwest are such that buyers of fall wools, as well as those willing to contract the 1906 clip, have retired from operations.

The shipments of wool from Boston to date from November 1, 1905, according to the same authority are 187,126,655 pounds, against 175,-936,741 pounds at the same time last year. The receipts to date are 234,312,744 pounds, against 267,853,601 pounds for the same period last year.

Company Makes Four Locations in Old Fields Long Deserted

Light development outlines the rule in the lower southwest fields. Operators are getting ready to start new work in some of the old fields that have been deserted during the Cortreaties. In Ritchie county one operating company that holds leases on a large block of territory and has not completed a well on it for six months has made positives for four wells to be started at once. The same is true of other districts. The locations have been made and the material ordered for the wells, but it will take some little time to get started. Before the end of the month, however, several wells in Doddridge county, the Peterson County Oil Company has completed No. 4 on the James Meffert farm and has a show for a 5-barrel pumper in the Berea grit in the Wells Creek development, same county, H. H. Jennings & Son have drilled in a second test on the Varg & Lefty farm and have a show for a good producer. The well has reached Berea gas and is operating some oil.

COULD USE 6,000 MORE CARS A DAY

Pennsylvania System Handles That Average—Cannot Meet Demands of Local Shippers.

B. & O. TRAFFIC MEN TO MEET

The average daily movement over the Pittsburgh terminals of the Pittsburgh district, known as the interchange movement, is now holding up at the average of 6,000 cars a day. This has been the average for two weeks past, while for several months the average has been almost that high, and occasionally there were weeks when this average was bettered. The movement is better than has ever been known. There is not a hitch anywhere nor is there any fear of a congestion, for the Pennsylvania system has not spent $20,000,000 for terminals in the immediate Pittsburgh district in the past three years without bettering the facilities at least 100 per cent. The other roads have also improved their facilities, so that the whole Pittsburgh district is in much better condition in transportation means and methods than ever before, and to say that twice the former tonnage can now be handled with better dispatch than in former seasons is not putting the thing too strongly.

Two representatives of the Pennsylvania's freight traffic department were seen. "I understand that you are handling tonnage that requires 6,000 cars a day now and yet cannot satisfy the demand," said a representative of The Gazette.

"Yes, and we could use 6,900 more every day and then not more than fill the wants," replied one of the traffic men. "And these cars could be handled by the operating department. The scarcity of cars can only indicate one thing—that the business of Pittsburgh is simply stupendous, and is greater than ever before. Over at the Jones & Laughlin steel mill are about 20,000 tons of finished steel now awaiting cars. More than a dozen calls come into the offices every day from shippers saying that they can use from three to 25 extra cars a day if the cars can be furnished. Under the conditions we are simply doing the very best we can; we are apportioning the cars to the shippers."

In this connection it is interesting to note that several of the coal and ore handling roads are ordering cars or want such cars at as early a date as possible. The Baltimore & Ohio has just ordered 500 wooden coal cars from the American Car and Foundry Company. Those are in addition to the 12,000 cars ordered for this year. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie has ordered from the Pressed Steel Car Company 250 composite wood and steel, drop-bottom gondolas of 100,000 pounds capacity. Fifty cars of a similar type were recently ordered by this company. The Norfolk & Western is in the market for from 3,000 to 5,000 cars in addition to 300 coke cars that will be built at once in the company's shops. The Duluth & Iron Range has ordered 500 steel hopper cars and the Duluth, Missabe & Northern 750 steel hopper cars from the Pressed Steel Car Company. The Pennsylvania recently ordered 15,000 additional cars for delivery early next year. An officer of the Baltimore & Ohio said that the company can handle twice the tonnage of former years this winter.

One Who Will Step Up.

John B. Thayer, fifth vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, who has been chief assistant to the late Sutherland M. Prevost, third vice president of the company in charge of the traffic department, is to become head of that department. Mr. Thayer is well known in Pittsburgh, and his reputation as an efficient traffic chief extends over America and Europe. He began his career as a clerk in the Empire line offices, and has ever since been identified with the traffic department of the Pennsylvania system. He served successively as chief clerk to the general freight agent, then freight solicitor, assistant general freight agent, general freight agent, freight traffic manager and fifth vice president. He is 44 years old.

B. & O. Traffic Officers to Meet.

The fourth semi-annual meeting of the traffic representatives of the Baltimore & Ohio system will be held during the week of October 16 at Cincinnati, with a tour of all of the lines in southern Ohio as a side trip. The meeting will be attended by Vice President Randolph, Manager of Freight Traffic Wight, General Freight Agents Gallener, Brockenbrough and McLaughlin, General Coal and Coke Agent Matthews and all of the division and commercial freight agents of the entire system in America. The business session will be held at the Grand hotel on Monday, October 16. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be spent touring the lines to Columbus, Newark, Zanesville, Marietta, Parkersburg, Portsmouth and Louisville, while Friday will be spent in an inspection of the Cincinnati terminals. A banquet at the Grand hotel Friday night will close the meetings. Papers of general traffic interest as well as one or two papers of a more or less historic nature regarding the Baltimore & Ohio in the section covered, will be presented.

B. & O. Awards Contracts.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, through Chief Engineer D. J. Carothers, has awarded a contract for the construction of the new line near Lodi, O., which is a portion of the new roadway between Akron and Chicago Junction, noted recently in this column. The contract is for the steam shovel and masonry work on eight miles of double track roadbed and was awarded to Hoover & Kinnear of Columbus and Rinehart, Dennis & Co. There will be a number of bridges on the line.

The company has also awarded contracts to W. J. Marson & Co. of Akron for the erection of several signal towers for use on the new road from Youngstown westward. Among the points where these towers will be built are Lowellvill, Nova, Flushing Tunnel, Kent and Ravenna.

Railroad Notes.

Conductor Welty of the Pennsylvania's Sewickley service, is off duty on account of illness in his family. E. R. Goodwin is running for him.

Official announcement from the Erie headquarters in New York says that the new and enlarged system, which includes the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, will be known for all public purposes as the Erie.

J. M. Harris, formerly assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines at Cincinnati, who resigned on account of ill health, has been assigned to special duty in the general passenger offices in this city.

Col. Samuel Moody, general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines west, after a full season of unremitting work, will leave on Monday with his family for a vacation jaunt of two weeks to rest for his winter campaign.

William R. Shoop, who has been connected with the office of general superintendent of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh for a number of years, has been appointed purchasing agent of the company, with headquarters in Buffalo. The duties of purchasing agent have heretofore been attended by the general superintendent.

Frank A. Cellar, son of Superintendent of Telegraph C. A. Cellar of the Pennsylvania lines west, has entered Yale university for the academic course. Being possessed of the love of outdoors—an inheritance from his father, who is a well-known disciple of Izaak Walton—he will doubtless certain to become identified with the best sporting elements of Yale.

A train carrying Third Vice President G. L. Potter of the Baltimore & Ohio, made the run of 38 miles between Newark and Columbus, a couple of days ago in 34 minutes, and on the same day a Panhandle special train carrying Vice Presidents McCrea, Wood and Turner, General Manager Peck and Freight Traffic Manager MacDade of the Pennsylvania lines west, made the run in 36 minutes. The best former record was 37 minutes, held by the Panhandle.

H. W. Thornton, superintendent of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania lines west, was here yesterday conferring with the general manager and other officers. Mr. Thornton is scheduled to be present in Pittsburgh next Monday evening to deliver the principal address at the opening of the Traffic club of Pittsburgh for the winter season. He will speak on "Co-operation." Greeting of the better conditions resulting from closer co-operation in the work of the traffic and transportation departments.

UNION LEAGUE OFFICERS GUILTY

County Officials Prove Conditions Exist to Which Police Should Put a Stop.

YOUNG BOYS AS BURGLARS

While the police department of Pittsburgh and its superintendent, "Buck" Wallace, found nothing out of the way with the Union League club, Judge Brown saw enough in the case as presented by District Attorney Stewart to fine and imprison the officers. Marshal Ruff, "Kid" Bates and George Potter, who pleaded no defense to charges of keeping a gambling house and selling liquor illegally and on Sunday.

The commonwealth placed many witnesses on the stand to prove the methods in vogue at the club. Among them were several women who were served with liquors there.

Attorney James Francis Burke asked for light sentences on the ground that his clients did not know they were violating the law. The club officers, he said, had written some time ago to the district attorney telling him of their intentions to open the club.

Judge Brown sentenced each of the defendants to pay a fine of $25 on the charge of gambling, $50 for selling liquor on Sunday and $100 for selling without a license. In each offense a term of three months in the workhouse was added, but as the sentences are to run concurrent this means an imprisonment of only three months. Judge Brown said the sentences were light, because while there had been wrongdoing the defendants were not more guilty than other members of the club.

There was a fourth defendant in the case, James Parker, and the plea of no defense was entered for him also. Parker was an employe of the club and on this account sentence in his case was suspended.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against J. A. Welsh, Jr., a druggist of Bridgeville. Claims aggregating $1,147.25 were filed with the petition.

Much Business in Juvenile Court.

Judge Brown in juvenile court sat in judgment in the cases of 25 children charged with various offenses. An unusual number of the prisoners were of tender age and their crimes ranged from burglary to common vagrancy. Joseph De Fazia, Pasaquale Bucci, Joseph Lucinna and Joseph Accanio, the three latter under 10 years of age, were charged with burglary, having entered the wholesale grocery house of Colvin, Atwell & Co. in Seventh avenue, where they stole money and merchandise. De Fazia, the oldest of the quartet, confessed that while he stood on guard the three little fellows pried off a screen and robbed the store. De Fazia claimed he got none of the proceeds of the robbery and that the others took the money home to their parents. De Fazia and Bucci were sent to St. Mary's Industrial school at Baltimore; Lucinna was placed in St. Paul's Orphan asylum, and Accinio was returned to his parents.

An affidavit of defense was filed in the suit of ex-Justice of the Peace Needling of Millvale against Isaac Wildberg, doing business as the Wildberg Company. The action is brought by the plaintiff to recover costs in suits alleged to have been brought by the defendant before him. In his affidavit of defense S. G. Waughter, manager of the Wildberg Company, says that prior to the bringing of the suits the plaintiff entered into a contract with the defendant, that for all suits which might be brought by the defendant the plaintiff should charge the defendant nothing for costs in any suit that might be brought unless the money was realized in each case. Waughter further says that no money was realized in the several cases and that the defendant is not indebted to Needling in any sum.

In the Divorce Court.

The report of the commissioner in the divorce suit of Grace Ritter against Adalbert Ritter was filed. The report recommends that a divorce be granted the libellant on the ground of desertion. There were two children born of their union. The libellant testified that after they were married they resided in various places in Pittsburgh, but never lived longer than a few months in one place. After each change of residence the libellant stated she had to return to her mother and remain with her until her husband furnished another room for her.

The testimony in the suit of Alberta McConnell against Thomas C. McConnell was filed. Mrs. McConnell stated that after her husband graduated as a dentist he became intimate with another woman and made the libellant's life so intolerable that she was compelled to leave him. The libellant avers that he drank considerably and frequently got drunk. She says her husband always kept a revolver in his room or at his office, and frequently told her he had shot somebody, always keeping her in a nervous condition. She also testified to finding him in a room with Mrs. Edith Early, the woman they roomed with at Turtle Creek, and she turned on the electric light unexpectedly. She avers that she feared her husband after he knew what she then discovered and immediately left the house.

Testimony was also filed in the case of Annie Schleiver against William Schleiver, alleging desertion.

Clyde C. Irwin in answer to a rule filed on him in his suit for divorce against his wife, Mary J. Irwin, filed a bill of particulars of what he expects to prove at the trial of the cause. He charges his wife with infidelity and says that he will prove that she was at a house in Frazier street with J. C. Maliney, in 1904, and that she was also with him at 334 Second avenue, her mother's home.

The exemplification of the will of Mariettee B. Glenn, who died December 12, 1904, in Berkeley, Alameda county, California, was filed. Pittsburgh property is left to a sister and a brother.

Mrs. Maggie Smith, late of Allegheny, leaves an estate valued at $25,000 to her husband, Charles W. Smith.

The Rt. Rev. J. F. Regis Canevin, trustee for the Holy Cross Polish Roman Catholic church at Glassport, was granted the right to mortgage the real estate of the church and to borrow $10,000 from the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

Traction Company Enjoined.

A preliminary injunction has been issued at the suit of A. N. Foster, restraining the Pittsburgh & Westmoreland Railway Company from laying tracks in the White Oak level road, one of the roads improved by the county commissioners running out of McKeesport. It is claimed that the county commissioners, who entered into an agreement with the railway company permitting the construction of the road, exceeded their powers. The case will be argued this morning.

The preliminary injunction granted to the borough of Bellevue to restrain James Greenough from erecting a frame addition to a house at 402 Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, was dissolved. The claim was made that the erection of the addition would be a violation of the borough ordinance fixing fire lines.

The trial list for next week in criminal court includes two murder trials. Milos Milasevic is to be tried on Monday and John, alias "Bud" Williams, on Wednesday. S. C. Wilkinson, charged with embracery in the Wilson graft case, is also on the list for Wednesday.

BURDETTE IS GUILTY.

Homestead Janitor is Convicted of Felony After Facing Alleged Victims in Court.

G. W. Burdette, formerly janitor of the Homestead Carnegie library, who was charged with criminally assaulting several young Homestead girls, was convicted of a felony in criminal court before Judge James R. Macfarlane.

Burdette, who is 50 years old, will be sentenced this morning unless an appeal is taken to the superior court by John C. Haymaker, Burdette's attorney. A number of the alleged victims faced Burdette in court.

SAILS UNDER NEW LICENSE.

Illinois State Authorities Are Unable to Stop Operations of the Floating Pool Room.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Sailing under a new license which was granted today by the federal authorities, the gambling boat, City of Traverse, will resume operations on Lake Michigan tomorrow. The old license, which was revoked yesterday because Capt. Jones had transferred the boat to the gambling combination without making a record of the transaction in the collector's office as provided by law, was surrendered today to the collector of the port.

An effort was made by the state authorities to have Collector Nixon refuse to grant the license and enrollment papers, but the collector said he could find no law which would support him in refusing a license to Capt. Jones.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S ASSISTANT IS NAMED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—President Roosevelt appointed Charles W. Russell, formerly special assistant attorney general in charge of the insular bureau of the department of justice, to the office of assistant attorney general, vice William D. Guthrie, recently promoted to the position of assistant to the attorney general. The position of special assistant attorney general formerly held by Mr. Russell, has been abolished.

BANK CLERKS PLAN FOR SEASON OF EDUCATION

Edward Sherwood Meade, Financial Authority, on Tuesday Begins Series of Interesting Lectures.

Edward Sherwood Meade, Ph. D., of the Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania, will begin a series of lectures on "Banking," before the Pittsburgh chapter, American Institute of Bank Clerks, Tuesday evening, October 10, in the chapter rooms over the Union National bank. Dr. Meade has selected for his lectures, which will be given at intervals of a month during the winter, the following topics: "The Business of Banking Sales," "The Business of Banking Purchases," "Historical Development of Banking," "Banking in the United States," "Forms of Bank Note Issue," "The Rate of Interest," "Bank Examination," and "The Gold Supply, the Rate of Interest and the Bond Market."

Edward Sherwood Meade.

Dr. Meade takes high rank as an authority, though one of the youngest of the group of professors in commerce and finance. He is instructor in economics, assistant professor of finance, Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, and director of the Evening School of Accounts and Finance, University of Pennsylvania.

Another pleasing feature of the second meeting of the present season will be the presence and a brief talk from Dr. Henry W. Temple, professor of political economy at Washington and Jefferson college, who delivered a course of lectures on political economy before the chapter last year. Previous to Dr. Meade's address the ways and means committee will tender him a complimentary dinner. The program committee has also arranged for several interesting musical numbers. A number of bank officers and clerks from surrounding towns are planning to be present.

THE THREE RIVERS

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 last night was 3.3 feet and the river was falling.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 6.—At 5 p. m. the Ohio river was 8.7 feet and rising. The rise from Parkersburg arrived and passed away, causing a swell of less than a foot in the local harbor. The government snag boat E. A. Woodruff is busy clearing the local harbor of obstructions left by the ravages of the ice of last winter. The cabin of the pump boat which takes care of the fleets of coal at Stewart's landing and other properties of the Monongahela Consolidated Coal and Mining Company was burned this morning. No lives were lost but the entire upper part and works of the boat were destroyed. Capt. Menges, superintendent of this district for the company, took immediate steps to have the damage repaired. The George Matheson was to cast to go to the bank a short way up the river on Thursday night while en route to the Kanawha with a tow of empties, on account of the fog. A slight rise is promised from the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers at the headwaters of the Ohio from the Pittsburgh district. This rise will not be sufficient to allow of the shipment of coal, but it will allow of the bringing into the Pittsburgh harbor many of the empties which are stored along the bank between Cincinnati and Bellaire to be loaded for the fall rises. Clear and pleasant.

MARIETTA—Four feet, rising. Clear, fine. Bedford up, 5 p. m.

LOUISVILLE—Stationary; in canal, 3.3 feet; on falls, 1.1 feet; below locks, 6.1 feet. Clear and pleasant.

WARREN—Five-tenths below. Clear, cool.

GREENSBORO—Five feet 11 inches, stationary. Clear, warm. Columbia down, Saturday; Woodward up.

PARKERSBURG—Four and five-tenths feet and stationary. Clear and cool. The Bedford left at noon for Wheeling.

STEUBENVILLE—Four feet 2 inches. Clear and warm.

WHEELING—Four feet 7 inches and rising. Cloudy and warmer. Departed: Bessie Smith, Parkersburg, 11 a. m.

POINT PLEASANT—Two feet 10 inches and falling. Down—Tacoma. Up—Douglass Hall.

HUNDREDS ARE IDLE.

Down on the wharf and along Water street scores of idle men stand about these days waiting for a rise that will send down streams the millions of bushels of coal ready for shipment. The crowd of idlers has been greatly increased during the past week by the laying-off of 300 men by the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company. The men are carpenters and boat builders and are not needed by the coal company at present. During the summer months they have worked about the wharfs of the company building coal boats and barges. Now they are hanging about the wharf, as rivermen naturally do, waiting for something to turn up that will give them work.

Capt. George W. Clark of Louisville called at Headquarters of Tribune No. 25 yesterday and told of the experience he and his crew had recently while coming up from New Orleans on the towboat J. B. Finley. It was about six weeks ago when the yellow fever scare was at its height in the south. All along the Mississippi Capt. Clark says the citizens lined up with rifles and revolvers denying the boat a landing. All were afraid there might be fever on the boat. At Helena, Ark., the fusillade was alarming and many bullets went through the pilothouse. No one was hurt as the crew kept under cover. Provisions and ice were sent out in skiffs from some points, but no landing was permitted. The boat reached Louisville safely, but the report of fever aboard had preceded her and the health authorities boarded and made a thorough investigation before the crew was allowed to go ashore. Capt. Clark will remain in the city several days.
